By Don Staruk

The Zoning Board of Appeals Saturday approved the first two applications submitted for sidewalk cafes in Andover since Town Meeting adopted a bylaw allowing outdoor tables in April.

The Earthfood Store, at 28 Chestnut St., was approved for four tables at the rear of its building. Backstreet Restaurant, 19 Essex St., was approved for nine tables along the side of its building.

Public hearings were held last Thursday, June 4, on these two applications and 10 other petitions. Straw vote approvals on all 12 petitions were made at a deliberation hearing Saturday morning, but are not legal until the decisions are written up and signed by board members. That process usually takes three or four weeks and is followed by a 20-day appeal period, so the tables might not be out for use until late July, according to Pam Mitchell, board member.

Walter McKertich, owner of the Earthfood Store with his wife, Glenda, was already sprucing up the area behind his store

Five juveniles caught in barn vandalism

By Don Staruk

Five boys, 10-14 years old, were charged last week with doing an estimated $1,000 in damage to a resident's barn on Jenkins Road during a number of visits to the property during the last three months.

The barn belongs to Reginald Mortimer, 85, of 89 Jenkins Road, who operated a mink farm on the property for 30 years until he had a heart attack in 1980.

The vandalism, which has been ongoing since March, included breaking about 50 windows, shattering a mirror and boxes of bottling jars, and trashing the records from the mink business. A television was thrown out a window, boxes of clay pigeons, for skeet shooting, were smashed on the ground and a set of golf clubs was scattered into the woods, some of the clubs

The Little League Tigers' Bob Busby looks as though he's about to be tagged out at the plate but the Giants' catcher, Elvis DeLarosa, dropped the ball, allowing the run to score. However, the Tigers needed a few more breaks, which they didn't get. They went on to lose the game, 10-7, last week at the Ted Boudreau Memorial Field, making their record 6-4. The Giants are 2-8. Read with Tina and Timmy Townsman

The Townsman will begin its Family Reading Program, Read with Tina and Timmy Townsman, with next week's issue. The goal of the program is to keep children reading throughout the summer.

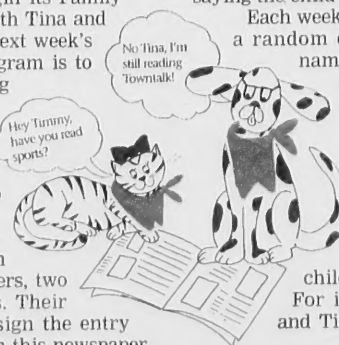

Children, ages 5 to 12, may participate. To be eligible to win a Tina and Timmy T-shirt, and to enter a grand final drawing at the end of the 10-week program, children have to read two newspapers, two magazines and two books. Their parent or guardian will sign the entry blank printed each week in this newspaper, saying the child has completed the task.

Each week, the Townsman will hold a random drawing to select three names of children who have completed the reading assignment. The three will be phoned to come in for a T-shirt.

In addition, the Family Reading Program will publish a reading assignment each week, to encourage children to continue to read. For instance, one week, Tina and Timmy Townsman will ask couraged from wearing a wig because of the similarity between her hair and that of the infamous orphan's. However, one small problem exists for this Annie-to-be: Her strands are blonde instead of strawberry! What to do?

Red dye is the answer; but what results is yet another difficulty. Faran, along with Annie #2, Katie O'Brien of Hampstead, N.H., is terrified of dogs! Presently, the search for a tame "Sandy" is underway.

Faran thinks that this production will nonetheless be "a lot of fun."

"I just hope that I'll get (the blonde) back before school starts in the fall!" she said.

An actress since the third grade, Faran likes what she's doing, but says she does "not want to be famous." Her favorite play is Stephen Sondheim's Into the Woods, and when asked what types of roles she would like to play in the future, she remarked, "I always play a 'good guy'...I would like to be a villainess some day!"

Annie will be showing at the Amesbury Playhouse Aug. 7-30. Showtimes are Thursday-Saturday at 8:30 p.m.; Sunday at 6:30 p.m., and a matinee performance to be announced. Prices range from $8.50-$12.

Group lists jobs for AHS kids

The Andover Fund for Education is accepting job applications for summer internship programs.

The job descriptions are posted at Andover High School, and the job application forms are available from Ruby Easton at the AHS guidance office.

This summer internship program will provide several substantive eight-week positions for Andover High students beginning July 6 and ending Aug. 28.

These paid positions are with local businesses or industries that will give the students what AFE board members call "an exciting and rewarding experience working with professionals."

Program is for elders' caregivers

Dexter Burley will be the guest speaker at a special program for caregivers of older adults on Sunday, June 14, at 7 p.m. in Faith Lutheran Church, 360 S. Main St. The program is being sponsored by the social ministry and education committees of Faith and is offered free of charge.

The program, "If the Good Die Young, What Happens to the Rest of Us?" will offer an overview of issues facing caregivers in making decisions about caring for older adults. Dr. Burley will touch on finance, long-term care options, family relationships and legal considerations. The program is the first in a series offered by Faith Lutheran. Other programs will include how to select a long-term care facility, understanding Medicare/Medicaid, legal rights of older adults, long-distance planning for care needs and learning what community resources exist.

Dr. Burley is a gerontologist who has developed programs and services for older adults in Georgia and Maryland. He was the director of geriatric and gerontology education and research programs for the University of Maryland at Baltimore and was responsible for the development of a statewide gerontology initiative. In Georgia, Dr. Burley was the executive officer and director of gerontology for the Augusta Resource Center for Aging and established a continuing-care retirement center in Augusta. He currently serves as a consultant to the University of New Hampshire and Dartmouth Medical Center on issues of aging.

Wanted: A marching band

Andover's Committee for Patriotic Observances is looking for a group of citizens or a neighborhood to put together a marching band or two that would fit into the community's annual Horribles Parade. The parade is a participants' parade that has become a Fourth of July tradition.

Kids of all ages move through the streets in all manner of costume, competing for prizes in such categories as best bike, best doll carriage, best pet, most satirical and, of course, most horrible. The parade will again be led by a Dixieland jazz band. Organizers have felt that some additional music could make the parade better or maybe even more horrible. Any kind of musical help from traditional to off beat would be appreciated.

The committee hopes a family, individual, group or neighborhood would be creative and come up with a game booth that would be entertaining to the kids who play for small prizes in the park after the parade. The committee will furnish prizes.

To help in any of these areas, call Marty or Bob Schmidt at 475-7147.

A breakfast with entertainment priced at $2.50 per person will again be held in The Park at Bartlet Street and the Middlesex Concert Band will top off the morning program with traditional and patriotic numbers.

Diabetes support group scheduled

A diabetes support group will be held Monday, June 22, from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. at Stevens Memorial Library in North Andover.

A person must be 16 years old to attend.

Pro-life group meets June 17

The Greater Lawrence Chapter of Massachusetts Citizens for Life will meet Wednesday, June 17, at 7:30 p.m. at One Parker St., Lawrence. The chairperson of each committee will give a report.

Adults and teens are welcome.

For information on this pro-life chapter, call Mary Cavallaro at 475-2466.

Summer Time

Included in the section will be a listing of events: camps, music, courses, coping groups, art, outings, theater, fairs, kids, seniors, meetings, sports, museums, volunteer opportunities and more.

If your organization wishes to have its event included in the editorial part of the section, send news of it to the editor now. Clarification on Tom Siopes story

In a story in the Townsman last week, ("Thomas Siopes named police sergeant,") the amount of back pay Officer Thomas Siopes said he is owed by the town was incorrectly stated.

Officer Siopes three months ago won a suit against the town, claiming he was discriminated against for involvement with the patrolmen's union when passed over for promotion to sergeant in November of 1986. Following the court decision, Buzz Stapczynski, town manager, said the back pay due Officer Siopes was between $70,000 and $90,000. Officer Siopes said 14-months ago the money owed him at that time for the sergeant's promotion was more than $100,000, with interest accruing at 12 percent, adding at least $1,000 a month.

This week, Sgt. Siopes said the back-pay figure of $112,000 attributed to him in the Townsman article was not his figure. He said he did not want to be tied to any particular figure, but that the back pay "could easily double that amount."

"It's closer to double that amount than it is to Buzz's figure," Sgt. Siopes said Monday.

As a patrolman, Mr. Siopes earned a salary of $35,273.11 in calendar year 1991 with another $1,852.50 in overtime pay and $2,436 in detail pay for a total of $39,561.61.

Patrolmen have been working without a contract for three full years, so his salary reflects fiscal 1989 figures.

More fond memories from 253 Andover Street

By Marjorie C. Kidd

When the article on the house at 253 Andover St. appeared in last week's Townsmen (page 2), I suppose Brad Pearson and I did the same thing with the picture of the house - cut it out to show our children or grandchildren.

I was impressed with his article. I was born in that house in March, 1920. My parents, Harry and Mabel Colbath, rented the house after they were married. My grandmother, Julia Smith, lived with us. In 1923 my brother, Harry Jr., was born there. My mother nearly died and Dr. Look sat for two days and nights with her in our living room.

My father owned a grocery store on the corner of Andover Street and River Street. My mother worked at the Bradlee Mill for a while.

We moved to New Jersey in 1926 when my father went to work for a family-owned structural steel company. That was when Brad's grandparents came to live there.

I, too, have loving memories of life in that house. My grandmother's roast beef and Yorkshire pudding cooked on that same kitchen stove that Brad's grandmother made her roast lamb.

It had gas lights on the walls and an out-house. There was a small barn where my father kept a horse and a truck. The big mystery was how the horse could get between the truck and the door to escape.

I also remember teasing with a visiting friend of my mother's and falling against the stove, burning my hand badly. The back porch provided many happy hours of watching bees and butterflies on the flowers.

Three of my playmates were Fred Kidd and his two sisters, who lived on the corner of Woburn Street and Ballardvale Road. In 1938, after graduation from high school, a girlfriend and I spent a two-week vacation with my aunt and uncle who lived on Woburn Street. Fred and I renewed our friendship. In 1945 we were married as he was finishing recuperating in an Air Force convalescent hospital from injuries sustained when he was shot down over Berlin.

Doherty center dedicated to the late Dr. McGrail

The Doherty Middle School media center will be officially dedicated to the late Richard F. McGrail next Tuesday evening, June 16, at 6:30 p.m.

Dr. McGrail, who was an administrator in the Andover public schools for 22 years, died Dec. 24, 1991.

Charles Labelle, a social studies teacher at DMS, along with a committee of other colleagues of Dr. McGrail, organized the dedication. Through memorial contributions enough money was raised to purchase several reference books to add to the media center's collection.

Dr. McGrail and his wife, Suzanne, moved to Andover 22 years ago when he became principal of the former East Junior High School. They have a daughter, Maura, and a son, Brendan.

Before Dr. McGrail's tenure in Andover, he had been an assistant principal at Wayland Junior High School and principal at the Holliston Middle School.

Dr. McGrail was instrumental in changing East Junior High School to a middle school, said Kenneth Seifert, who retired as superintendent of Andover schools two years ago.

Mr. Labelle and the dedication committee hope to add more books to the media center's collection. Donations are still being accepted and should be made out to the Dr. Richard F. McGrail Memorial Fund, C/O Floyd McManus, Doherty Middle School, Bartlet Street, Andover, Mass. 01810.

Building inspector to receive Chamber award

The Andover Chamber of Commerce Community Service Award will be presented to Samuel J. DeSalvo at the Chamber's annual dinner Wednesday, June 17, at the Andover Marriott.

Mr. DeSalvo was unanimously selected by the Chamber's board of directors, according to Enzo Fossella, president of the local organization.

"Mr. DeSalvo's career reflects a genuine love for the town of Andover," said Mr. Fossella. "Despite overseeing the greatest industrial and residential building boom in Andover's history with a minimum of disruption and upset, Sam has not received the appreciation that is due him. He is truly an unsung performer. Sam has successfully walked the narrow path between encouraging healthy and vigorous growth in town and the need to enforce local and state building codes. He has helped make Andover hospitable to responsible development and, at the same time, is as responsible as anyone for preserving the unique character and heritage of our wonderful town."

"In addition to recognizing Sam's service to our community, the Andover board will once again honor the achievements of four younger residents of our town," Mr. Fossella said. "We will be presenting Outstanding Young Citizen Awards to Linnea Basu of Phillips Academy and Frank Morris of Central Catholic and Pria Singh and

Samuel J. DeSalvo

Diane Aikman of Andover High School. We are very proud to honor the incredible achievements of these young people.

"Each of these youngsters has already achieved a list of remarkable accomplishments scholastically, athletically and, perhaps most importantly, as providers of service to the underprivileged, the elderly, the handicapped, the needy and the sick. As a community we should be extremely proud of the wonderful story of each of these youngsters and, therefore, we want to publicly acknowledge them both in their own right and also as symbols of our town's future."

Mr. DeSalvo will receive the 30th Community Service Award which has been presented to distinguished Andover residents since 1963. Last year's recipient was Josh Miner. The award is given to individuals who have demonstrated leadership, achievement and service to the community.

In recognizing Mr. DeSalvo's achievements, Neil H. Cullen, Chamber director and chief financial officer of Phillips Academy, noted that "Sam is a 'doer'; he helps homeowners and businesses determine how to achieve their objectives within the constraints of the building codes rather than telling them what they cannot do. Andover is most fortunate to have had Sam as its inspector of buildings."

Local Massport engineer to be guest at professionals' meeting

George Johnson of Andover, director of engineering at Massport, will be the guest at the annual meeting of the Boston Chapter of the Society for Marketing Professional Services (SMPS) today, Thursday. The reception is 6 to 7 p.m.; dinner and program at 7, at the Charles Hotel in Harvard Square in Cambridge.

Mr. Johnson is responsible for all design and construction projects at Logan Airport. He will spearhead an estimated $2.2 billion worth of new construction and renovations at Logan in the '90s.

In addition to Mr. Johnson, select firms and individuals in the build environment will be recognized for exceptional contributions to the field of service marketing.

SMPS is the only national association exclusively devoted to the development of marketing executives in architecture, engineering, construction, legal and financial firms. Founded in 1980, the Boston chapter is one of the largest and most active branches in the country.

Area lawyer receives women's TWIN award

Lawrence attorney Marie Walch Loughlin, pioneer for women in the legal profession, received the 1992 TWIN award at the Tribute to Women in Industry luncheon Tuesday.

Twenty Merrimack Valley women, chosen by their companies for their outstanding achievements, were honored at the ninth annual TWIN luncheon sponsored by the Greater Lawrence YWCA at the Andover Country Club.

A special award was presented to Mary McGarry Morris, nationally acclaimed Andover author, by mistress of ceremonies state Sen. Patricia McGovern, D-Lawrence.

Mrs. Morris' second novel, A Dangerous Woman, was named best fiction of 1991 by Associated Press critics. In Time magazine, it was one of five best fiction works of the year. Her first novel, Vanished, was nominated for the National Book Award in 1989.

Mrs. Morris received a painting donated to the YWCA by Andover artist Lynn Loscutt. It depicts a piece of Bennington pottery among items in an attic, acknowledging Mrs. Morris' ties to her native Vermont.

Attorney Loughlin, who lives in North Andover, received her doctor of laws degree from Boston University Law School in 1938. She was one of eight women in a class of 200. When she opened her office that same year, she was one of only two women practicing law in Lawrence.

Subsequently, she has acted as mentor to many area women in law.

She served 10 years on the Lawrence School Committee and instituted equal pay for equal work for women high school teachers who had been working for $500 less than men.

She is the only woman ever elected to the board of the Arlington Trust Co., presently Shawmut Bank, and the first lay woman elected trustee of Holy Family Hospital.

Here are the women who were chosen by their companies and honored for their achievements:

Veryl D. Anderson of North Andover, and Cynthia B. Stocking of Groton, co-directors of Professional Center for Handicapped Children in Andover.

Candid M. Arcidy of Bedford, Manufacturing Resource Planning, AT&T, North Andover.

Joyce Daher Belko of North Andover, treasurer, Daher Shoes Inc., Methuen.

Heidi L. Bond of Topsfield, vice president/controller, Fanfare Inc., North Andover.

David H. Hammond, vice president of Northeast Retirement Services Inc., of Woburn, will discuss tax-saving options for retirement distributions as well as how to develop an investment strategy. He is an author, columnist and consultant specializing in tax-deferred retirement planning.

"The IRS gives individuals just 60 days to decide on the best option for treating retirement distributions, which makes planning essential," said Gerald T. Mulligan, president and chief executive officer of Andover Bank. "Anyone who expects a lump sum distribution within the next few years should find this a valuable seminar."

The seminar will cover tax-saving options for retirement distribution funds, including five- or 10-year averaging, IRA rollovers from 401(k), pension, profit-sharing and stock options, as well as how to develop an investment strategy for retirement funds. There will be a question-and-answer period and free refreshments will be served.

Six nurses honored with recognition awards

Six nurses with connections to Northern Essex Community College were honored at the Nurse Recognition Awards Dinner recently presented by the Merrimack Valley Nursing Task Force.

Receiving the awards for outstanding performance in their nursing specialty were Brenda Burke of Salem, N.H., and JoAnn Eckels of Andover, both faculty members in the Evening Registered Nursing Program; Patricia Kepschull of Newburyport, director of student health services; Sally-Ann Milne of Andover, a graduate of Northern Essex's Registered Nursing Program and current nurse manager at Holy Family Hospital in Methuen; Francine Pappalardo of Salem, N.H., an associate professor in the Licensed Practical Nursing Program; and Gail Tanager of Dracut, an assistant professor in Registered Nursing.

John R. Dimitry, president of Northern Essex, was not surprised that so many Northern Essex nurses were honored. "I am extremely proud of the college's registered nursing and licensed practical nursing programs," he said.

Citing her work with AIDs education and in helping to institute a smoke-free campus for the college, Mr. Dimitry also commended Ms. Kepschull for her work.

Each of the awardees received a Florence Nightingale Medallion, an Exemplary Service Certificate from the Merrimack Valley Nursing Task Force and a citation for Meritorious Service from the Massachusetts State Senate.

Women recognized at YWCA's TWIN luncheon

Janice Burkholder of Andover, left, co-chairwoman of the YWCA Advisory Council, smiles with award winner Lawrence attorney Marie Walch Loughlin of North Andover, at Tuesday's TWIN luncheon. A native of Lawrence, Ms. Loughlin graduated from Lawrence High School. Married to the late William J. Loughlin, with two children, her law practice increasing, she decided her political career, serving on the Lawrence School Committee five consecutive two-year terms, and law career could not be combined successfully. She chose to follow her legal career, with the hope she would have more time to spend with her children, so in 1951 she resigned from the School Committee after 10 years of service. Supporters urged her to run for mayor of Lawrence, but she declined.

Looking & Feeling Good

Your Dental HEALTH

by Richard D. Hopgood, D.M.D.

LAUGHING OFF PAIN

To deaden the pain of certain dental procedures, the dentist relies on a variety of very effective topical and local anesthetics. These work by temporarily blocking the transmission of nerve impulses, thereby making an area of the mouth seem numb. In some cases, the dentist will supplement the use of local anesthetics with a sedative. This serves to reduce patient awareness and anxiety, as well as alter and reduce the perception of pain. For over a century, the most common sedative used in the dental office has been nitrous oxide, a compound of nitrogen and oxygen. Its inhalation through an anesthetic mask causes giddiness, euphoria, and has the effect of raising the patient's pain threshold. These attributes have earned it the nickname "laughing gas."

We try to make all our patients' visits to our offices as relaxing as possible. If you're hesitant about visiting the dentist, we welcome you to come to 296 Lowell Street, Rt. 133, with easy access off Rt 93, and get acquainted before an emergency arises. This way, you can get to know us and feel comfortable coming to us for dental care. Hrs: Mon & Thur 10-8, Tues & Fri 8-6, and by appointment. Our services include cosmetic work, sealants, dentures and implant reconstruction. Phone: 475-2431.

P.S. Nitrous oxide produces few unpleasant side effects and wears off quickly.

I wouldn't be sitting here talking about my doctor if he hadn't performed remarkably. In fact, I wouldn't be sitting here at all.

Susan Callahan is thankful to be alive.

Bleeding from the throat, she and her husband feared the worst when she arrived at the New England Memorial Hospital Emergency Room. But within 1½ hours, Susan went from being at death's door to being a very lucky, stabilized patient.

Dr. José Marcal performed an emergency endoscopic procedure that enabled him not only to diagnose a burst blood vessel but, remarkably, to treat the life-threatening condition right in the emergency room. Dr. Marcal's quick response, and his ability to perform this advanced procedure, not only saved Susan from surgery; it saved her, period.

New England Memorial Hospital is on the forefront of endoscopic diagnosis and treatment. Susan Callahan gratefully acknowledges that without Dr. Marcal, without the quick attention in the emergency room, and without a technological breakthrough like endoscopy, she wouldn't have a story to tell. Especially one with a happy ending.

Pike awards 36 diplomas

Thirty-six students graduated from the Pike School in Andover on Friday, June 5. Headmaster David A. Frothingham awarded diplomas to the eighth- and ninth-graders going on to secondary school. The traditional afternoon ceremonies were held in the school's William H. Harding Gymnasium.

Presenting the students for graduation was Walter Morris, head of the upper school. Nicola Tsongas from Pike's board of trustees and mother of one of the graduates, Katina, extended congratulations from her fellow board members.

It is a custom at Pike for a member of the class that graduated four years earlier to give the commencement address. This year's speaker was Barry Hugo, who came directly to Pike from his own June 5 graduation at Governor Dummer Academy.

A high honors student during his four years at Governor Dummer, he is the son of Paula Hugo of Haverhill and Edward Hugo of Lawrence. He will enter the University of Pennsylvania in the fall.

Awards were presented to the outstanding graduates. Among the students recognized for their achievements were Allison Lowrie of Andover, winner of the Headmaster's Award for leadership as well as high standards of scholarship, and Loren Giallanello of North Andover, who received the Margaret J. Little Award for spirit, including integrity, generosity and thoughtfulness.

The Alumni Prize, recognizing academic improvement, responsibility and friendliness, was awarded to Nancy Webster of Andover.

Stefanie Santangelo of Andover and Shadi Tayarani of North Andover shared the Nicholas Grieco Prize for academic improvement, personal growth and positive influence on fellow students.

Several students were recognized with academic awards. Scott McCray of Andover received the Founder's Award for an outstanding record in mathematics. He was also awarded the Alice L. Jablonski Science Prize and the French prize.

St. Augustine's grads prepare for high school

By Neil Fater

Thirty students said goodbye to St. Augustine's School, and hello to both the summer and their future during a commencement service Friday, June 5.

Valedictorian Louis Melahn and salutatorian Kimberly Huse addressed those present at the eighth-grade graduation.

Louis, who was awarded a Knights of Columbus scholarship, spoke about having a sense of belief and using that belief to both form and forge ahead throughout the rest of one's life.

Kimberly used poetry to review her and her classmates' years at St. Augustine's. She was a recipient of the Parent Guild Award.

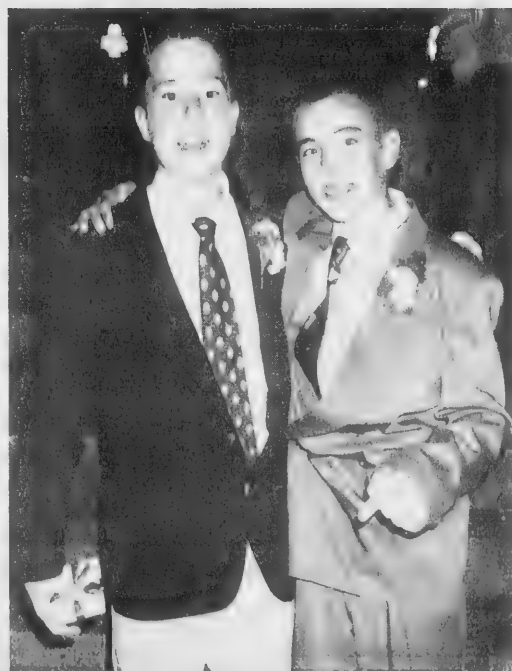

Both students had attended the Catholic institution for the entire nine years of their schooling.

Neil Fater is a Townsman intern.

Nursery school alumnus Andrew Cole is distracted by a well-wisher during St. Robert's Country Day School's graduation last week.

Bachelor of rhymes conferred

Forty-eight nursery, enrichment and maxi pupils at St. Robert's Country Day School received their bachelor of rhymes degrees Wednesday, June 3. This year's graduation theme, planned by a committee of mothers at the semi-cooperative nursery school, was "Oh, The Places You'll Go," based on the Dr. Seuss book of the same title.

With a background of ships, planes, trains and buses designed by Jackie Wattles, mother of one of the students, the graduates received their diplomas from Cindy Conley and Jody O'Hearn, co-chairwomen of this year's parents' board.

Honorary degrees were presented to special friends and parents of the school by Helen P. Keegan, retiring education director.

Thanked for their work for the school were Lynn Avila, Connie Halks, Colleen and Dan Harrington, Terry Iorio, Pat Cressman, Mary Sullivan, Ann Couture, Roseann King and Don and Kathy Mulligan.

Mrs. Keegan also awarded scholarships to St. Robert's graduates, including one in her own name. Jennifer Galvin, daughter of Pam and Dick Galvin of Andover and a 1978 graduate of the school, received the first Helen P. Keegan Scholarship. Ms. Galvin will attend Tufts University in Medford in September.

Mrs. Keegan is retiring this month as the school's first director (see related story, page 18). She will continue as adviser to the staff.

Sally Barron of Andover, a teacher at the school for the past six years who is leaving, was presented a dogwood tree and other mementos by the parents.

Two other scholarships were also awarded from funds donated by friends of the school and from the annual "Lunch with Santa."

Mrs. Keegan gave scholarships to Elizabeth Daley and Karen Babine. Ms. Daley, daughter of Thomas and Shirley Daley of Tewksbury and a graduate of Notre Dame Academy in Tyngsboro, will attend Stonehill College in the fall. Ms. Babine, daughter of Ted and Rose Babine of Andover, will attend Seton Hall University.

School's founder retires

By Betsy Frankenberger

When fellow workers, friends and family joined Helen Keegan at her retirement party, not enough praise could be given to the woman who co-founded St. Robert's Country Day School more than 22 years ago.

Mrs. Keegan ended her duties as director on graduation of her nursery school students June 3, yet her career is hardly over. Even during retirement, she will still be actively involved at St. Robert's as a staff adviser.

She and local resident Gail Dispensa, another of the three co-founders of the school, developed the plan for a private Catholic nursery school during a time when there were only a few of its kind in the area.

When Mrs. Keegan and Mrs. Dispensa, along with custodian Bill Walsh, and a few others who have since left the area, first opened St. Robert's, only 24 kindergartners attended the program.

Sitting in the same basement of St. Robert's Church on Haggetts Pond Road where the school started, Mrs. Keegan describes how it looked in its early years: "We only had two classes.... Now we are the largest semi-co-op in the Merrimack Valley."

Helen Keegan, retiring director of St. Robert's Country Day School, gives the first scholarship in her name to Jennifer Galvin, a 1978 graduate of the school.

Connie Halks, mother of students Nicholas and Gabrielle, spoke of Mrs. Keegan as a teacher who "pulled the best from everybody. [She] jammed their days full of memories."

Pam Galvin will take over as director in the fall. Passing the reins doesn't seem to faze Mrs. Keegan, who says: "I don't think I'll ever come down; I have more fun floating."

NOTHING TO SNEEZE AT

Many consider a sneeze to be one of the more insignificant, involuntary actions undertaken by the body. The "Webster's Dictionary" definition of a sneeze as "a sudden violent audible spasmodic expiration through the nose and mouth" may give more weight to the considerable potential of this reflex action. Unfortunately, some remain blissfully unaware of a sneeze's latent energy until the day it causes them to suffer back injuries. In fact, sneezing is a quite common cause of injury. When a person tries to resist the upper body's vigorous forward motion, a powerful muscle contraction can occur that may cause a painful subluxation. In common language, suppressing a sneeze can "throw your back out." Polite behavior only requires that people cover their faces when sneezing, not stifle the urge.

Even a small injury can become serious if left untreated. If you have health problems, headaches, pain, stress, numbness, etc., please don't delay, call us at DELORENZO CHIROPRACTIC GROUP, 475-5042, for an appointment. Our office is located at 15 Central Street. Happy Father's Day to our patients and readers!

P.S. Overexertion during a bowel movement is another common source of subluxation and back pain.

THE REAL ESTATE CORNER

with Jean Fitzgerald & Pamela Lebowitz

TALK TO THE REALTOR

Almost every week, we hear a Realtor tell an anguished tale of working for months with buyers who say they really want a specific kind of home, say a classic house built in traditional style. Then they buy a sleek contemporary!

Maybe what was most important was the high-tech kitchen or the wooded lot, and these could have counted for more than the style of the house itself. To save time and to spare you from being shown dozens of homes that are completely inappropriate to your needs, talk to the Realtor who is showing you homes. Explain what you need. What kind of furniture do you have? Do you have enough to take on major fix-up projects, or do you want a home in move-in condition? What do you like or dislike about your current house?

Don't be the strong, silent type with a Realtor. Provide constant feedback - negative and positive - so he or she can more easily rule out the homes that just won't work, and find the right new home for you and your family.

If you are considering a move, contact the professionals at Century 21 Minuteman Realty. Call us at 475-1243, or stop by our office at 2 Elm Square.

Spice and zest are on the bill Saturday, June 13, as the Crossroads Coffeehouse presents the award-winning Cajun sounds of the Boogaloo Swamis.

The concert begins at 8 p.m. with the doors open at 7:15 p.m.

According to concert organizers, the Swamis are a popular draw with the coffeehouse crowd. This year marks their third appearance at the Crossroads, as well as their third Boston Music Award for best world music act.

The evening will begin with a concert-style set. After intermission, the center seats will be cleared to leave room for those who want to try the Cajun two-step.

Cajun and zydeco are cornerstones of the Boogaloo Swamis' music, but they also combine the influences of R&B, blues, Tex-Mex, country and rockabilly.

Whether performing original tunes or adding their own twist to the work of others, their focus is up-tempo and lively.

Admission is $6 at the door. Home-baked treats and gourmet coffees and teas are available before the concert and during intermission.

After this concert the Crossroads Coffeehouse season will take a short break. No concerts are scheduled for July and August as organizers prepare for the new season, which begins in September.

The coffeehouse meets at North Parish Church, at the corner of Massachusetts Avenue and Great Pond Road in Olde North Andover Center.

Music students hit a high note at festival

The Merrimack Valley Music Teachers' Association presented a music festival at the University of Massachusetts at Lowell.

Students of teaching members presented programs before an audience and an adjudicator, who in turn presented each one with a gold ribbon and a written evaluation.

Sixty-six students performed solos. A new feature this year was a session with 20 ensemble entrants.

A poster contest was also judged at the festival.

The winners were Sara Hemeon, Meredith Affleck, Caroline Yao and Robyn Allen, all of Andover. Gwen Schmuhl, also of Andover, received honorable mention.

Adjudicators were Allison Barr, who has teaching studios in Hanover and Brookline; Deborah Beers, a teacher at the Longy School of Music and Dean Junior College; and Joan Reddy, a teacher of piano and voice and a choral director from Lexington.

Participating students from Andover were Meredith Affleck, Robyn Allen, Karlene Anderson, Leah Bonner, Amanda Camelio, Andrea Cerniglia, Roger Cohen, Kim Davidson, Elizabeth Davis, Biana Fay, Sara Hemeon, David Hsu, Hemant Joshi, Rohan Joshi, Sarah Kaleel, Catherine Kannan, Michael Mano, Heather Marcum, Katharine McGrath, Matthew McGrath, Lori

New York organist plays at Music Hall

Organist Eugene Hancock of New York, N.Y., will perform the third concert in Memorial Music Hall's series Wednesday, June 17, at 8 p.m.

He will play works by Sowande, Coleridge-Taylor, Wilson, DaCosta, Cooper, Sexton and Hancock.

The Music Hall is located at 192 Broadway (Route 28) in Methuen.

Doors open at 7:30. Tickets are sold at the door the night of the performance on a first-come, first-served basis. They cost $5 for adults and $1 for children under 12 years old.

The 18-week Wednesday evening series runs through Sept. 30. Recorded information on the recitals is available 24 hours a day on the Music Hall Event Line, 685-0693.

West Parish Church's new organ was built around a case that was found in the attic of a church in Hudson.

New organ dedicated

West Parish Church will celebrate the installation of its new organ Sunday, June 14, at 7 p.m. with a recital performed by Joyce Painter Rice.

Ms. Rice, who holds degrees in church music from Pfeiffer College and Southern Methodist University, has been music director at West Parish since last July. She was formerly music director at Arlington Street Church in Boston.

She has played recitals at Old West Church and Trinity Church in Boston and Memorial Music Hall in Methuen. Ms. Rice is sub-dean of the Merrimack Valley chapter of the American Guild of Organists.

The new organ incorporates many recycled parts and was built by Bradley Rule of New Market, Tenn., this year.

The case was found in the attic of a church in Hudson and required many painstaking hours to restore its original grain-painted finish. The keyboards and main works, found in Tennessee, were built by Johnson and Son of Wakefield.

Ms. Rice will perform traditional and contemporary selections by Buxtehude, Froberger, Gastoldi, Balbastre, Bach, Brahms, Dugas and others. The concert and dedication service are open to the public with no charge for admission.

Reading troupe tells tales of the sea

An Andover woman will be among a storytelling group that will perform Saturday, June 13, at the Maritime Festival in Salem, Mass.

Diane Parenteau Klein, a member of Readers Aloud, will "read" a variety of sea stories from 2:30 to 3:30 p.m. at Derby Wharf in Salem.

The show, designed for all ages, will include excerpts from Captains Courageous by Rudyard Kipling, The Wreck of the Hesperus by Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, Riders to the Sea by John M. Synge, The Log of the Skipper's Wife by Dorothea Bano and Moby Dick by Herman Melville.

The group, which performs without the aid of costumes, props or an elaborate set, attempts to draw listeners into the world of classic literature, Ms. Klein said.

Opera singers in benefit

Operafest!, a local educational group dedicated to promoting opera as an accessible art form, will present a fund-raising concert with proceeds going to the campaign of Emma Cormier Donnelly for Methuen state representative.

The concert will be Sunday, June 14, at 3 p.m. at Methuen Memorial Music Hall.

Jane Cormier, sister of Mrs. Donnelly, and her husband, Carlos Martinez, will perform a program of light opera and musical theater pieces.

Mrs. Donnelly and Ms. Cormier grew up in Andover and graduated from Andover High.

Tickets are $15 general admission and $12 for senior citizens. Call 975-EMMA to order tickets.

Bishop McNamara pays visit

Franciscan Center hosts Catholic Charities' reception

Catholic Charities/Merrimack Valley will hold its annual summer reception at the Franciscan Center, 475 River Road, Thursday, June 25, from 6 to 8:30 p.m. There will be refreshments and entertainment by Santiago Fernandez. This year, Catholic Charities will welcome the Most Rev. John R. McNamara, D.D., who recently was ordained bishop of the Merrimack Valley region.

In addition, Catholic Charities will honor Sister Marie McDonald, SND, the outgoing director of the Merrimack Valley Catholic Charities Food Pantry. Under Sister Marie's supervision, the Lowell food pantry has developed into the largest food-assistance program in the Merrimack Valley.

With the help of more than 40 volunteers, the pantry provides emergency assistance to those in need and operates on-site advocacy services to help needy individuals. Over the last year, the number of people served by the pantry increased more than 25 percent.

But food and financial contributions have risen to meet the needs of individuals living in Lowell, Dracut, Tewksbury, Chelmsford, Westford, Pelham, N.H., and surrounding communities, Sister Marie said.

As a traditional part of this reception, the Kenneth Cox Award will be presented to a young man and woman who have displayed exemplary volunteer service in their community. The award is named after Kenneth Cox, a lifelong resident and former president of the board of trustees at Catholic Charities/Merrimack Valley. He devoted a large part of his life to reaching out to people in need of support and assistance.

Two Lowell High School students will be the recipients of this year's Cox Awards: David Souland and Alba Rosa Kuilan.

Tickets for the reception are $25 per person and may be reserved by calling 452-1421. All proceeds will benefit Catholic Charities/Merrimack Valley.

Firefighter Poole gets accidental disability

By Don Staruk

The state's Contributory Retirement Appeals Board last week found in favor of firefighter Leonard Poole and ordered the Andover Retirement Board to retire him on an accidental disability, ending nine years of dispute between Mr. Poole and the town.

"I don't feel the board is going to appeal," said Rod Smith, town accountant and a member of the Andover Retirement Board.

The decision means Mr. Poole, 51, of Lawrence, will be retired at about 72 percent of his salary, about $21,000 of his $29,000 salary, instead of the 50 percent he was getting on an ordinary disability pension, according to Mr. Smith. That's an increase of about $730 a month, from $1,100 to $1,800, and unlike the ordinary, the accidental disability pension is tax free. He will also be entitled to the roughly 22 percent differential retroactively, according to Mr. Smith, "about $20,000."

Mr. Poole Wednesday said he was satisfied with the latest decision.

"This is the decision I've been waiting for for nine years," he said.

But he also indicated he would not accept only the retroactive differential pay.

"I'm not retired," Mr. Poole said.

He said he was retired illegally in 1989 by Chief Harold Hayes against a court order to keep him on injured reserve status at full pay. Mr. Poole now plans to submit retirement papers for August of this year, which would change all the pension figures.

Whether this means the town will end up back in court remains to be seen.

Mr. Poole previously received approximately $200,000 in back pay after superior court ruled in 1988 he was prematurely removed from injured reserve status in 1984.

In February of this year, CRAB decided to review Mr. Poole's case. The case revolved around an injury to Mr. Poole's left knee more than nine years ago while he was on duty as an Andover firefighter. Mr. Poole claimed all along that his disabling knee problems are a result of the accident. The town held that the accident merely aggravated a previous arthritic condition. The latest CRAB decision found that "the aggravation of a pre-existing condition into a disability can be compensable."

Case history

Mr. Poole was hired as a firefighter in August, 1983. On Aug. 19, 1983, he was on duty at a 12-vehicle accident on Route 495. One of the vehicles involved was a truck loaded with lumber and, while unloading the truck, Mr. Poole was struck on the left knee by a large piece of wood.

He was treated at the hospital and released for the knee injury after the accident. He had arthroscopic surgery about a month later and was placed on injured leave status.

In 1984, still not able to return to work, he was dropped from the payroll because he wouldn't agree to retire on an ordinary disability.

In 1986, Mr. Poole filed a suit against the town contending that he should have remained on injured reserve status, under which he would have received 100 percent of his salary, tax free.

The court found in his favor in December of 1988. The town appealed and in October, 1989, the decision was upheld, and the town paid Mr. Poole the roughly $200,000, which included four years of back pay plus medical expenses and interest.

In April, 1989, over Mr. Poole's objection, Fire Chief Harold Hayes filed an application for involuntary retirement for him on an ordinary disability.

In July, 1989, Mr. Poole was examined by a medical review panel, which found he was disabled and that the disability was probably permanent. The panel found that the knee was "clearly aggravated" by the accident, but also found that Mr. Poole had "progressive arthritis in his knees."

In August, 1989, the Andover Retirement Board

found that Mr. Poole had "progressive arthritis in his knees."

Five juveniles caught in barn vandalism

damaged from breaking the glass.

Anything that was in a box or a drawer was taken out and smashed. Two of seven commercial beehives were destroyed, two others were damaged and two knives used for scraping honey were missing. After one of the incidents Mr. Mortimer found a spade out in the woods, and put it back inside the barn. The next time he found it, it had been thrown through a window.

Mr. Mortimer was relieved this week that the vandals were caught, but said his inability to deal with the damage has convinced him he is getting too old to continue tending to his orchard and his beehives.

"Seven or eight times they must have been in that building," Mr. Mortimer said. "I've had that building for 30 years and nobody's ever touched a thing."

He sold his five remaining beehives last week.

The vandals were caught by Patrolman Richard Aumais, who said he was disturbed that Mr. Mortimer was being harassed. Patrolman Aumais took it on himself to make extra checks of the property during the past few weeks and finally, while watching the area after school got out on Tuesday, May 26, he caught three youths at the barn.

Two of them admitted being involved with the vandalism while the third was making his first visit to the site with his friends. Four other names came out, three of whom admitted taking part, and a fourth who had only been to the area once and had not been involved in the damage.

The five will be dealt with through the Lawrence District Court's juvenile diversion program, according to Officer Aumais. They will pay for damages and clean up of the glass inside and outside of Mr. Mortimer's barn.

"They'll stay out of there now," Officer Aumais said.

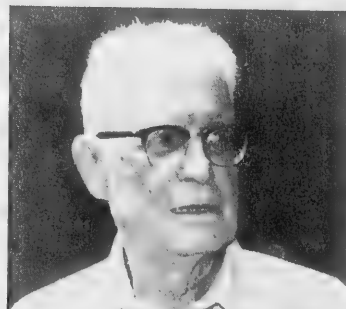

Farmer calls it quits at 85

Reginald Mortimer quit raising mink at his 89 Jenkins Road farm after he suffered a heart attack in 1980. This week, after vandals damaged a barn and two of his commercial beehives, he sold the bees and decided he was too old to continue working his orchard.

At 85, Mr. Mortimer said he has been able to do less and less work, and understands that one must give into age limitations. But those limitations came a little clearer to him one day last week.

He was in his asparagus garden one afternoon last week when he heard a crash from the area of his barn, a few hundred yards behind his house, and figured the vandals had come back. When he got there, he saw the top had been knocked off one of his beehives. He also saw the kids responsible for it hiking through the woods, but knew he couldn't chase them.

This week five local youths were charged with the vandalism and will have to pay for damages. But Mr. Mortimer will remain hurt by the damage.

The barn was part of a mink farm Mr. Mortimer operated on his property for 30 years. The farm had 3,000 mink at its peak and during the fall pelting season, up to a dozen local kids worked for Mr. Mortimer along with his two daughters, Joan Raza, of Lawrence, and Barbara Peterson, of Andover.

He had always taken kids in to show them the bees, and a short while ago two mothers brought their kids into see the hives so the children could write essays for school.

Mr. Mortimer and his wife, Belinda, 82, lived in Woburn and North Reading before moving to their Andover home 40 years ago.

"I wanted a place to raise the mink," Mr. Mortimer said.

The Mortimers bought the property with Mrs. Mortimer's sister and brother-in-law, Ann and Dennis Pettigrew, who live on the second floor. The house was built in 1765 and was a stop on the underground railroad before the Civil War. A hidden space behind the chimney on the second floor is big enough to hide six people.

They bought the property, which abuts Harold Parker State Forest, with about 100 acres of land.

"Since then we've sold about 70 acres to the state," Mr. Mortimer said.

Mr. Mortimer was a printer for the Wakefield Item before he was a mink farmer. But he knew he wanted to work outside and to have his own business, so he started buying mink.

"I started with two mink," he said. He kept buying and before he knew it, he was in business. The barn, which Mr. Mortimer built, was where the mink were skinned and their pelts were treated and dried before being shipped off for sale in New York.

"Quite an operation. I used to love it," Mr. Mortimer said.

It was a lot of work for the farmer, and no picnic for the mink either. The mink were born in March and pelted in November. Only the good breeders were kept for the next year.

"It's a lot like the turkey business I guess," Mr. Mortimer said.

The business got tougher as people became concerned about the animals, and Mr. Mortimer said it would be a tough way to make a living today.

"But I enjoyed it. The days weren't long enough," he said.

He also extracted honey from the beehives in the barn. He had seven hives and now is down to five.

"I'm getting rid of them. Two are demolished anyway," he said.

He also had an orchard with apple, peach and pear trees. He is down to about 30 trees but said he is too old to do all the pruning and spraying to keep up with the trees.

He got rid of the mink after his heart attack in 1980, and still has a leaky valve in his heart. He has also had an aneurysm in his stomach, which caused circulation problems in his feet, resulting in his toes having to be amputated.

Mrs. Mortimer fell two years ago and broke her hip. She has had another operation since then and now has to use a walker to get around.

"I could scream," she said.

Hired help keeps the house in order.

"I better start thinking about giving up some of these things," Mr. Mortimer said. "With all this destruction and everything else, it's kind of foolish for me to keep going at it."

The kids with the vandalism put the climax to it, he said, and he will confine his work to his asparagus and vegetable garden.

"Now I just have my garden and I'm lucky to have that," he said.

ZBA approves some outdoor cafe tables with flowers this week, and said he was happy with the news of the approval.

"Wonderful. It will be nice not to see people sitting on the curb, sitting on the milk crates trying to have lunch," Mr. McKertich said. "We're getting the area ready. It will look nice."

Lillian Shulman, owner of Backstreet and the adjacent Cactus Jack's restaurant with her husband, Alan, was also happy about the approval.

"It's shady and it faces the library and the shrubs are right there," Ms. Shulman said. "They'll be small tables with four chairs per table."

Backstreet's outdoor area will feature light fare from the Backstreet menu and the full Cactus Jack's menu of Mexican food.

Ms. Mitchell credited Mr. McKertich for pushing the issue of seasonal outdoor tables. Last year Mr. McKertich was told by Sam DeSalvo, building inspector, that the tables were not allowed. The ZBA upheld the building inspector's decision that the sidewalk cafes were not covered under the existing town bylaw. Mr. McKertich pursued the issue with the Planning Board to get the bylaw proposal to town meeting.

Other board actions

Only one of the 10 other petitions heard by the board last week created any controversy, a request by Wynwood Associates Inc. for a variance to build a home on a vacant lot off River Street that does not have frontage on a public way.

Five or six neighbors spoke in opposition to the petition. They said access to the lot is a narrow, private way that is not much more than a driveway and which is already used by three residents whose homes are on River Street but who do not have other driveways. The residents were concerned with increasing traffic both on the private way and pulling out onto River Street where the site distance is very limited.

The access way is an "old paper street" called Pine Road on old maps, according to Stephen Colyer, planning director. Douglas Wacome, the owner of the parcel in question, had a variance to build a single house on the two-and-a-half acre parcel several years ago, but which since expired. The parcel was tied to a five-house subdivision on Charlotte Drive, but the topography of the land sets it much lower than the other five lots. That topography, and the previous variance, attributed to the board finding a hardship, according to Carol McDonough, board member.

A variance from the zoning bylaw requires the applicant to show that the bylaw causes a hardship. Paul Bevacqua, one of the members who sat in on the hearing, said the board believed Mr. Wacome and his attorney, Andrew Caffrey Jr., satisfied that requirement.

"The hardship is owing to the fact that it is landlocked," Mr. Bevacqua said. "To not allow it would be depriving him use of the property."

The variance was unanimously approved.

The board also approved the petitions of:

- James and Jane Trudeau, of 44 River St., for a variance to allow a deck which will not meet minimum setback requirements.

- William C. Smith, of 927 Main St., Reading, for a variance to raze an existing cottage and build a new single family home that does not have frontage on a public way at 3 and 5 Glenwood Road Extension.

- Wynwood Associates Inc., for a variance to construct a single family home on a lot that does not have frontage on a public way at 23 Carter Lane.

- Russell Shannon and Walter Moquin, of Methuen, for a special permit to allow operation of a self-service laundry at 195 Andover St. in a general business district.

- First Eastern Mortgage Corp., 100 Brickstone Square, for a special permit to allow a satellite dish on the roof of the building.

- Mobil Oil Corp., at 309 Lowell St., for a variance to erect two signs.

- Granville Guild, of 35-37 Balmoral St., for a variance to construct an addition to the existing dwelling that will not meet setback requirements.

- John's Village Deli, 22 Andover St., for a variance to put a sign on the side of the building which will not face a street.

RECYCLING

Hearing some support in communities for recycling

By Virginia Cole

Even though we don't have letters to the editor of the Townsmen praising our recycling program, there are signs around the state and around the country that there is a rising positive side of public participation in seeking out and supporting solutions to the continuing trash problem.

One way this is seen is by the growing number of citizen protests against new developments of landfill or incinerator sites.

And gradually people are beginning to understand why metals and yard waste should not overburden and wear out incinerators. Particularly the younger generation (kids) are realizing that something does happen to the trash you put out at the curb. It just does not disappear, never to make an impact on your life again.

The most immediate demonstration of citizens seizing control of this problem is the growth in recycling. It is there; something we can do; something we can see and something easier to understand than the ozone layer or the warming of the whole earth.

People resist change for good rea-

This drawing, which included the words, "She cheers for me at soccer, go go go," was done by 7-year-old Meredith Voiland of 2 Patriot Drive, writing about her mother, Donna Voiland. One of the winners of the Andover Center Association's recent contest on mothers, Meredith's entry also included: "She reddes me my male. My mom loves me a lot and I love her."

'We love our mother'

Last week, the Townsmen ran the essay of Ruth Bell Clark, one of the winners of the essay-writing contest on mothers, sponsored by the Andover Center Association. This week, the children winners are published.

By Junito and Madinson Ortega

Why we think our mother is the best mother of the world:

Because she is the one who stands out for us. She supports us through bad and good. For example, when we don't have no food in the house, she thinks and invents something up for us to eat. We also love our mom because she is a mom with pride and happiness.

When we are down, she cheers us up with XXXXX and cherishing, not by arguing or fighting with us.

Some others think just because they're mothers, all they can do is watch the kids all day long. But that's not true, because my mother can prove it.

When we want something, she says no in a good way, such as "I promise I'll give it to you some other day." She never broke a promise to us. She's also understanding because she says that when got a C or D in our report cards or grades, she tries to help us in any way she can.

When we are sad, she'll leave us

'When we are sad, she'll leave us alone for awhile. Then she'll be back with surprises for us. She makes us feel happy, never down. She's also a mom who cares because she keeps us safe and away from danger as much as she can.'

alone for awhile. Then she'll be back with surprises for us. She makes us feel happy, never down. She's also a mom who cares because she keeps us safe and away from danger as much as she can.

We are grateful for our mom and these are the reasons that make our mom the best mom in the world.

The Ortigas are siblings who live in Lawrence. The Townsman was not able to learn the name of their mother because there was no phone listing for the family.

Teens ask: What's to do this summer?

By David McCallum

As the summer approaches, one question has been on the minds of most local teens. That question is, "What am I going to do this summer." Well, for some that may mean lounging around the house or playing basketball at a friend's, but for those more ambitious teens it will mean a summer job.

Or will it? Because of the state's current economic state, some local businesses are having to tighten their financial belts, which can spell bad news for young adults hoping to earn some extra spending money.

But, really, how bad can the job market be? Well, out of 14 local businesses interviewed, only five are able to hire teen-agers just for the summer. In all, about 20 lucky locals were fortunate enough to find work in town, according to an informal survey by the Townsmen.

Teen-age unemployment is becoming an epidemic in Andover. In all, approximately 2,369 students will be jobless this summer.

"Six to eight kids come in every day with applications," said an employee of Raspberry's Eatery on Main Street.

Some local businesses, however, have done all that they are able, to give kids something to do.

"We're only a movie rental store," said an employee of Movies and More. "We have about five kids working for us already."

Local teens are really starting to feel the pinch.

"I'm graduating this year, and I really need some money for college, but no one is hiring!" said Catherine Gallagher, a student at Phillips Academy.

Many local businesses, such as Waldenbooks, the Butler's Pantry, the Best of Thymes, and Daher's, say that they just aren't able to hire anyone for the summer only.

"We have had a lot of old employees coming back this summer because I think that they know that they won't find anything better," said a worker from Ford's coffee shop.

David McCallum is an intern with the Townsmen. He is a student at Phillips Academy.

sons. Public mistrust of government is high right now, which makes a genuine and common motivation for resistance. But lack of understanding and lack of information add to the problem. I think Andover is offering its citizens all the information it knows right now about the refusal to pick up yard wastes, large metal goods and, in the near future, tin cans. The town is telling you now so you can find out why and understand the reasons and be able to accept the results or have time to bring about results that are better for both you and the community.

Public energy needs to be converted into positive support for projects, especially recycling. People trust what they know and fear what change will bring. I urge the town to let the public become as well informed as possible as soon as further knowledge about changes in trash pickup is known to them.

Today's public wants to be involved and expects honest answers to its questions. Why must we recycle tin cans? Why can't we put leaves out in the waste? The public must not be seen as an opponent, a hurdle to get over or even an inconvenience. The public must be made a partner for changes in our waste disposal system if changes are to go peacefully and successfully.

EDITORIALS

Crying for him and them

The story of former mink farmer Reginald Mortimer on page 1 in today's Townsmen makes us feel like weeping, for him and the perpetrators. Here is an 85-year-old man, minding his own business, most likely feeling vulnerable, trying to enjoy what he's earned in life - privacy, time for a hobby, his own property - and a group of kids ruins it for him.

Five boys, 10-14 years old, were charged with doing an estimated $1,000 in damage to Mr. Mortimer's property during a number of visits there during the last three months.

Now, Mr. Mortimer has had to give up his hobby of beekeeping. The vandals destroyed property, smashed windows and made a mess that this elderly man can't cope with.

The acts were outrageous, mean spirited and dangerous. Perhaps the juvenile vandals didn't understand whose property they were ruining. Still, these children show a lack of morality, a lack of judgment. What would make anyone return again and again to ruin another's property?

The Townsmen has a policy of not publishing the names of juveniles who are in trouble with the law. The idea is to give them another chance. But we are questioning our policy at this point, especially when we listen to Mr. Mortimer: "I've had that building 30 years and nobody's ever touched a thing..." And looking at some of his possessions: "I better start thinking about giving up some of these things. With all this destruction and everything else, it's kind of foolish for me to keep going at it."

The town should thank Officer Richard Aumais, who was disturbed by the vandalism aimed at someone so vulnerable. Officer Aumais returned to Mr. Mortimer's property to hide until he caught the juveniles.

We are outraged at what happened to this elderly man; we are sad. And we do not understand who it is who could have done such a hateful thing.

Let's unpackage our grocery items

By Perry Colmore Catlin

Grocery shopping. Most of us do it. Most of us don't like to do it. Most of us do it because we like to eat.

My style of grocery shopping in the last few years is to ignore it until there isn't much to eat in the house. Or, if my children are going to be home, I even make a list that includes items such as "Read food" (translation: ice cream, potato chips and chicken), or "Blayne food" (translation: vegetarian food, rice cakes, yogurt).

Now comes in the mail information from the Grocery Manufacturers of America that "a survey of 5,600 consumers shows the current nutrition panel design is more effective in giving shoppers important information than any of the proposed alternatives now under consideration by the agency."

Designs tested included the current panel, which includes nutrient components agreed to by the FDA, the current panel plus daily recommended value listings, which indicate in grams the macronutrients recommended for average consumers, and more.

Apparently, the industry conducted "this very expensive research," the press release calls it, at the request of the Food and Drug Administration. The study's sponsors were General Mills Inc., Kellogg Company, Kraft General Foods, Nestle USA, Ocean Spray, Pet Inc., the Procter & Gamble Company, Quaker Oats Company and the Chocolate Manufacturers Association.

Well, how interesting. Now that the Grocery Manufacturers of America has written to me, I'd like to pass along its address, phone and fax numbers just in case you have something to say to the group: 1010 Wisconsin Ave., N.W., Suite 800, Washington, D.C. 20007; or phone 202-337-9400; Fax, 202/337-4508.

There must have been a time in my life when I had time to shop carefully. You know, read the labels, compare labels for prices per ounce, etc., check to see what chemicals are included in the product, and so on.

Now, I have an O.J. Simpson routine of making it quickly through the aisles, and rarely do I carefully check the labels.

I would, however, like to ask the Grocery Manufacturers of America to get on the backs of the industry that packs our groceries. I'm talking about double packaging, triple packaging, etc. So much paper to unwrap, so much to throw out, such a waste of our Earth, our landfills.

Obviously, manufacturers are trying to catch the eye of the consumer and the idea is that packaging has to be "attractive" to gain our attention.

Well, there are hundreds of thousands of us who would purchase a product that advertised itself as being close to unwrapped, maybe it could be called anti-packaging, or naked wrapping, or whatever; let Madison Avenue design that part of the un-package.

But give us, the consumers, some credit. We care more about the environment than a beautiful packaging job. Just to give one example, I made Jack, my cat, switch from one brand of cat food to another because his former favorite was packaged in tin cans and his current diet comes in aluminum. Currently, there is no market here for recycled tin, but Andover takes aluminum, including scores of Jack's used cans, the third Saturday of the month during recycling at West Middle School. If Jack can do it, so can we. Why not fire off a letter to the Grocery Manufacturers of America?

LETTERS

Compliments the Planning Board

Editor, Townsmen:

Several months ago I wrote to criticize the Andover Planning Board for reviewing in secret session the expansion plans of Hewlett-Packard at its River Road facility in West Andover. I would like now to compliment the Planning Board for having given its considered attention to the concerns of residential abutters during the public hearings to consider HP's proposal.

Chairman John O'Brian and members Hooks Johnston, Mariann Lombardi and Carl Byers not only listened attentively to residents' concerns about the traffic impact of the project, they also took time on a Saturday morning to meet local residents and view first hand the site of neighborhood concerns.

I believe Hewlett-Packard representatives noted the board's attention to the residents' concerns and made several accommodations which the board adopted in its decision approving HP's expansion plan. I thank HP for its responsiveness and the speed with which it made adjustments to minimize the traffic impact on River Road at Brundrett Avenue.

My confidence is restored in the Planning Board and its ability to balance corporate expansion and neighborhood concerns. However, without vigilant neighborhood participation, the board will only hear the well oiled, orchestrated presentations of the corporate planners. In the future I hope the board will proactively invite residential participation in the planning process before the final public hearings begin.

Decries feminist movement

Editor, Townsmen:

Two weeks ago I wrote a letter supporting the traditional couples-only, senior-junior prom. Last week, a person wrote in disagreement and I'd like the opportunity to respond.

First, the writer suggested that I should not waste time on "trivial" matters such as the prom (but apparently she did not apply this to herself, since she wrote her thoughts on the subject).

The writer implied that I considered "Someone less desirable because they prefer..." These are her words, not mine. I urge her to read again my original letter, which will serve as my defense.

Because I favor preserving the prom as an escorted event, the writer quite unfairly drew the conclusion that I view being part of a couple as "a ticket to a social life." However, I do believe that most people still enjoy being part of a couple and that to live and be loved by one person, in marriage, for a lifetime, is still an ideal to be cherished.

The writer suggests that there are more important matters that our youth face and here we are in agreement. I view the prom as just one, small traditional American institution, among many under attack by the feminist movement in the country. The radical feminists must cringe at the thought of young women and men attending a formal event in couples. They surely will delight in the day when the traditional prom is only a memory. What the feminists delight in, I usually cringe at, and vice-versa, to wit:

Over the past 60 years the liberal feminist movement has:

1. Promoted dispensing birth control to unmarried people (1960s). We all can see the sad results of the sexual revolution;

2. Promoted abortion on demand (1970s). We all can see the sad results of 26,000,000 dead and just as many exploited;

3. Promoted, in coalition with gay rights groups, a legal acceptance of a homosexual lifestyle. We all can see the sad results of this lifestyle; AIDS is now among heterosexuals and untold heartbreak of all involved;

4. Continues to promote unhealthy competition and resentment between male and female; questions the sanctity of marriage.

Basically, I see a turning away from God and his commandments. Please try to see the bigger picture and decide for yourself which way we ought to go.

Wants more on Marcus DeLoach

Editor, Townsmen:

I read last week's article about Andover High School student Marcus DeLoach and was surprised that you did not mention more about the music and the hours of training and practice that must go into a performance of this caliber. I was curious about how Marcus' interest in singing and opera developed and what's involved in his vocal training. I was disappointed that the piece did not touch on these topics.

I attended the recital and was inspired by these two young people. To presume that Catherine Lambert should of appeared alone would have taken away from the richness and versatility of the program. A large part of opera, to which these two teen-agers aspire, are duets and ensembles. The blend of Marcus' strong baritone and Catherine's sweet soprano demonstrated such skills.

To have such a strong commitment to their goals, at such a young age, is truly commendable. Bravo to Marcus and Catherine.

Gary Coon: Make sure not to die in Massachusetts

By Gary Coon

Whatever you do, don't die in Massachusetts. That's the slogan of Citizens United to Reform the Estate Tax (C.U.R.E.T.) and the advice lawyers, accountants and financial planners give their wealthiest clients. If you die a resident of the commonwealth, your estate will be subject to one of the most punitive and burdensome death taxes in the country. In fact, Massachusetts is one of only five states that imposes an estate tax on its citizens. It is time to remove this unfair, counterproductive burden.

The Massachusetts legislature should phase out the estate tax and join the majority of states that only have a so-called "sponge tax." Estates valued at more than $600,000 are taxed at the federal level and the IRS allows a certain amount of the tax to be soaked up by the state revenue agencies in the form of a credit, thereby earning the nickname "sponge tax."

A recent study commissioned by the Boston Estate Planning Council concludes that changing to a sponge tax would keep 2,092 people in the state, 564 of whom have assets valued at more than $1 million. Going to a sponge tax would help eliminate the tax incentive for the elderly and the wealthy to establish their permanent residence in states like Florida, Arizona, South Carolina or even most New England states, where only the sponge tax applies. These citizens will stay in Massachusetts, where they will invest in their local communities, purchase consumer goods and pay taxes.

A little common sense tells us that our current system is wrong. Here's an example.

Let's say you and your spouse own your home in Andover and it's worth $200,000. You have a few kids, so you have another $300,000 in life insurance and other assets totaling less than $100,000. Our state is one of three that taxes property passed to a spouse. If you leave this to your spouse, your spouse will owe $22,000 in Massachusetts estate taxes. If you were to leave the same estate to your children, Massachusetts takes about $50,000. If you lived in Florida or New Hampshire or Rhode Island, the tax would be zero.

'If you die a resident of the commonwealth, your estate will be subject to one of the most punitive and burdensome death taxes in the country.'

Now, let's face it. Most of us in that financial situation wouldn't move to Florida. You'd die in Massachusetts, never thinking your estate was big enough to merit tax planning. But what if you own a home here and a vacation condo in Florida? You own a small business and have assets of $1 million - $2 million - $5 million. At what point would you find it advantageous to move to another state?

The Massachusetts' estate tax is bad public policy. It doesn't tax the rich, it merely chases them and their assets out of state. Shifting to the sponge tax would be revenue neutral and might even increase revenue for the state's coffers. Common sense says the richest people move out. The tax hits the middle class hardest because they don't have the financial advisers of the more wealthy. Reforming our estate tax code would make taxation more equitable and help our economy, too.

I'd enjoy hearing your thoughts about the estate tax. Write to me at the State House, Room 146, Boston 02133.

OUR NEIGHBORS

They built a weekend retreat in the woods

By Mary Katis

In the cities and suburbs, people are looking for green spaces and parks to enjoy after work or on holidays and weekends. The attraction to be part of the beauty of the land and close to nature is reflected in John and Lyn DiGaetano's house at 177 Great Pond Road in North Andover. The house and almost 11 acres are on the market for $1.5 million from Prudential Howe Real Estate Company.

Twelve years ago, the DiGaetano family chose to live in North Andover because Mrs. DiGaetano had grown up here and because the parcel of land was available.

"The land was so beautiful and we could have privacy but still be near everything," said Mr. DiGaetano. "We built our own road, which keeps the land for our needs. The house has a southern exposure for the sunlight and is designed to be comfortable and livable. Lyn and I wanted a house where the children and their friends could feel at home."

The DiGaetano children are Christine, almost 19 years old, a student at Bowdoin College; Liza, 12; and Molly, 8; Liza and Molly are students at Pike School in Andover.

Originally, Mr. and Mrs. DiGaetano designed a center entrance Colonial with eight rooms and a two-car garage.

"Peter Gutting of Burlington, Vermont, my wife's brother-in-law, was the architect," said Mr. DiGaetano.

"We helped design with an electric eraser," added Mrs. DiGaetano.

"We had our own ideas to make the house look country and livable, but have special places for formal rooms, too. I collect Oriental rugs and have some that I inherited from my grandmother," she said.

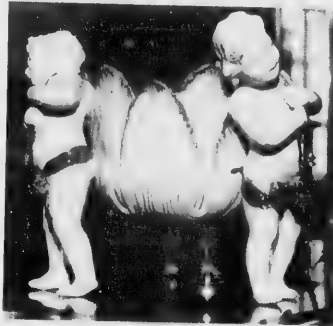

Her grandmother traveled all over the world and was a great collector and her grandfather was the first president of the Arlington Trust Bank.

"The living room is where I display my collection of antiques and Venetian glass and paintings that belonged to my grandmother," said Mrs. DiGaetano.

They achieved formal decor with drapes that complement the Oriental rug in the living room and dining room. Barbara Reichter of Andover Interior Design helped with selecting fabric for the drapes and upholstery. The children call the living room, "Mom's Room."

"Rough-hewn notched beams are used throughout the original house," Mr. DiGaetano said. "The pine beams are supporting beams and were cut to size. The floors have wide pine boards."

The dining room continues a formal decor with a country warmth, using honey colors in the wood beams and flooring. The dining room table was made by Andover Family Craftsmen, which is located on Turnpike Road, North Andover.

"The table took 20 months to complete and was made with our design using curly maple," said Mrs. DiGaetano. "The table actually began with wood boards that were cut, sanded polished and handcarved. Barbara Reichter helped me find the brass chandelier, which is a reproduction piece. It is so heavy it had to be wired to the ceiling crossbeams."

Four years ago, Mr. Gutting, the architect, designed the addition, which extended the country kitchen into a family room with a cathedral ceiling and 11 windows, plus two doors for access to the beautiful woodlands and pool. The addition also included a master bedroom suite with high ceilings and overhead fans, plus a bathroom with a steam bath and shower, Jacuzzi, weights and Nordic Track for winter exercising. Part of the suite is an open area for a sunroom, den and sitting room with a fireplace. The open space affords wall area for many paintings collected in Jamaica and Haiti.

"The master bedroom suite has beige woodwork with light colors and much more white," Mrs. DiGaetano said.

The paintings of Erral Allen, a Jamaican painter, are hung in the den and master bedroom. The paintings of Burrell, a Haitian painter, whose style is reminiscent of post-Impressionist painter Paul Gauguin, are displayed in the sunroom.

"The master bedroom suite is my favorite place in the house, but I also like the new family room and the living room," said Mrs. DiGaetano.

"A field opens outside the master bedroom," said Mr. DiGaetano. "I can listen to the birds singing and see the pheasants on the lawn."

The addition created changes outside as well as inside the house. A pool and patio areas were designed to maintain the symmetry of the property.

"Three patio half circles were designed by Terra Flora, a landscape designer. The design was to mirror the pool area. The pool has a gunnite (concrete) floor with a black marble coating. Roy Martineau, a North Andover stone mason, completed the work. He is a wonderful workman and very hard worker," recalled Mr. DiGaetano.

"We wanted a weekend spot where we didn't have to drive," he continued. "We built our own vacation spot. The kids were free to enjoy nature and explore the land when they were younger. The property around the house and pool are fenced with a mesh enclosure in the woods and a Kentucky horse fence in designated places to highlight the rolling hills."

Mrs. DiGaetano enjoys horseback riding with her daughter, Liza. "Growing up in North Andover I could horseback ride in the countryside from the Andover Riding Stables to West Boxford but the trails are closed now," Mrs. DiGaetano pointed out. "I want to move to be able to ride in the country. Nothing ties us to North Andover anymore. I guess the country is luring me."

Hanning's work ethic pays off for Warriors

By Rick Harrison

When Jim Hanning was coming up through the Andover youth baseball system he was always a full year younger than the kids he was playing against.

His birthday happened to fall one day before the cutoff date.

You couldn't turn a certain age before August 1 and remain eligible to play, and Jim's birthday is July 31. So he was always a year behind, which is like an eternity in terms of maturity and growth through the early teen years.

As good as he was in Little League and Pony League, there was always that feeling if he had that extra year he would dominate.

Hanning never complained, at least not publicly.

He was simply driven to work hard the whole year 'round, dedicating himself to becoming the best pitcher he could be.

His work ethic has paid off handsomely as this spring everything has come together for "The Kid."

Although he is still younger than most of his opponents, Hanning has made them all look like Little Leaguers facing Sandy Koufax with one dazzling performance after another.

If Andover won its State Tournament semifinal against Dartmouth

High yesterday, Hanning will get one last opportunity to enwrap a team in his stifling pitching web.

Central Mass. champion Holy Name of Worcester and Western Mass. titlist Amherst Regional were squaring off in the other State semifinal yesterday, vying for the privilege of meeting either Andover or Dartmouth in the State Division 1 final Saturday at Fino Field in Milford.

Defending State champ Andover won its first three tourney games to move within two victories of becoming the first team in years to win back-to-back Division 1 titles.

Hanning was the catalyst, as he's been all year, pitching in each of those first three contests.

He worked 16 innings overall, boosting his record to 13-0 with two victories while yielding just three hits and one run (unearned).

He had tossed 15 consecutive shutout innings after surrendering an unearned run in the first inning of the opener against Malden Catholic, and his string of innings without allowing an earned run had stretched to 26 in a row.

Andover, 21-2 this year and 46-3 in its last 49 starts, defeated Malden Catholic (12-1), St. John's Prep (7-4) and Arlington (7-2) en route to its third straight Eastern Mass. Division 1

North Sectional title.

Dartmouth High earned its shot at the champs by clobbering Taunton 14-6 in the South Sectional title game.

Andover, 12-1

Malden Catholic managed just two hits (one infield) and an unearned run off Jim Hanning, who worked the first seven innings and left with a comfortable 10-1 lead in the Division 1 North quarterfinal at Andover High.

With approximately 200 people in attendance the Lancers, who had beaten Acton-Boxboro 9-3 in the first round, appeared somewhat intimidated as they committed six errors to make Andover's job that much easier.

MC took a 1-0 lead in the top of the first when leadoff batter Marc Freni reached on an error, advanced to second base on Jon Leo's sacrifice, and crossed on an opposite-field single by cleanup hitter Joe Spagnolo.

Hanning, who hadn't pitched in more than a week, then walked Chris Rosati and went to a 3-2 count on Tim Irbagno.

Rosati let Hanning off the hook by getting picked off base to end the inning, a move the crafty lefthander has employed a half-dozen times this year to nail runners leaving too soon with two outs and a 3-2 count on the hitter.

The deflated Lancers never threatened again until the seventh.

Hanning named Mass. High School Player of the Year

Andover High baseball Division 1 Player-of-the-Year Jim Hanning has also been selected as the 1992 Gatorade Circle of Champions Massachusetts High School Player of the Year.

As a state winner, Hanning qualifies for consideration as one of the eight regional and one National Player-of-the-Year.

UMaine full scholarship recruit Hanning, who walked four and fanned three, retired 10 straight and 15-of-17 from the second through the sixth.

Malden Catholic loaded the bases on two walks and an error in the seventh, but Justin Hesenius stabbed Freni's well-stroked line drive in deep right field to end the threat.

Andover scored twice in the bottom of the first when leadoff batter Bobby Sheehan singled to center field, Josh Nelkin belted an RBI triple, and Hesenius plated Nelkin with the eventual winning run on a sacrifice fly.

It went to 5-1 in the second as Chris

GDA names Amy Daniels as top athlete

Amy Daniels of Andover has been named the top female athlete at Governor Dummer Academy for the 1991-'92 school year.

A three-sport standout at the prep-private institution located in West Newbury, Ms. Daniels was recently given the award which is earned annually by the senior girl who, "by her example and her achievement in athletics, has brought greatest honor to her school during the past year."

The presentation was made at Governor Dummer's awards assembly the day prior to commencement.

Her main competition for the award, ironically, was another outstanding athlete from Andover Tara Ryan.

Amy Allison Daniels, who will attend Lafayette College next fall, was a standout in soccer, volleyball and lacrosse.

Opposing coaches and her teammates recognized her leadership qualities and athletic abilities time and again, naming her an All-Independent School League All-Star in two sports and the captain of two teams.

She was GDA's Most Valuable Player in soccer last fall.

During her athletic career at Governor Dummer the soccer team reached the New England Championship final, and the volleyball team won two league titles as well as going undefeated this past winter.

Ms. Daniels trademarks on the athletic field are her aggressiveness, competitiveness and team spirit.

Ms. Daniels is also an avid skier, and she has spent several summers and winter weekends and school vacations teaching sports to young children at camps.

She comes from an athletic family, with two brothers who undoubtedly helped her develop her drive and desire.

Brother Matt is a senior two-sport standout at Andover High, this past year quarterbacking the football team to a winning season and hitting over .300 as the starting catcher on the State Tournament qualifying baseball team.

Matt will attend Phillips Exeter Academy next fall for a year of post-graduate education, and hopes to continue on to either Boston College or the University of New Hampshire.

Younger brother Peter is finishing off his freshman year at Andover High, where he also played football and was the catcher for the ninth grade baseball team.

Ms. Daniels is the daughter of Dr. Arthur A. and Jane Daniels, 12 Gray Road.

Her father is a doctor of dental surgery with offices in Winchester, while her mother is an active booster of athletics at both Governor Dummer and Andover High.

Her number's been retired Liz Davies earns awards as she ends high school

Andover resident Liz Davies concluded a spectacular four-year athletic career at Notre Dame Academy in Tyngsboro by earning four major awards at the school's sixth annual Sports Banquet at the Windsor Mills Restaurant in Dracut.

Davies was voted the Most Valuable Player in three varsity sports: soccer, basketball and spring track.

She gained the most notoriety in basketball, where she scored over 1,500 career points and pulled down more than 1,000 rebounds in leading the NDA Lancers to four league titles, three Eastern Mass. Division 3 North championships and two appearances at the Worcester Centrum in the State final.

Liz also was presented the United States Marine Corps "Distinguished Athlete Award," and she had her basketball jersey number retired.

She is arguably the best all-around athlete ever at the tiny Tyngsboro all-girls' school, and she will attend Bryant College in Smithfield, R.I. next fall on a basketball scholarship.

"No boy will be out of place in our program, regardless of his ability level," stresses Bettencourt, the Andover High varsity baseball coach, Texas Rangers scout and soon-to-be Univ. of New Hampshire head coach.

"Our goal will not be to establish a standard for the youth to attain, but to enable him to reach his own potential level with our teaching and assistance."

Enrollment is limited and games will be played daily.

Checks should be made payable to: Andover Baseball School, 12 Peggy Lane, Salem, N.H. 03079.

For further information call Dave Bettencourt at (603) 898-4653.

Tryouts

BACKGROUND:

In order to properly evaluate players for the forthcoming season, tryouts will be held for DIVISIONS I and II under 14 yrs. and under 12 yrs., boys and girls teams. This tryout process will supplement the player's ratings for the prior season, and evaluations by select team committees performed throughout the spring season.

WHO IS ELIGIBLE?

1. Players who have registered for the Fall 1992 Season
2. Players born after August 1, 1978 (including players already on select teams).

COMMITMENT:

1. For all competitive teams a commitment of two seasons is expected.
2. ASA expects players to regularly attend the Saturday games, participate in one tournament per season (usually Columbus Day weekend and Memorial Day weekend) and attend two practices a week. With conflicts with other sports, the 50-50 rule should apply. Practice-Practice 50%, Game-Practice - in favor of Games, Game-Game - players and parents are asked to decide which game is more important. We suggest that both coaches are made aware of the situation.

TRYOUT DATES:

(Please note that there are two tryout days for boys and two tryout days for girls. It is expected that all players are available for both days.)

AHS golf team wraps up best season in its history

By Rick Harrison

The Andover High golf team wrapped up the most successful season in its history on Monday by placing third in the All-State Division 1 Team Tournament at Ferncroft Country Club in Danvers.

"About five years ago we won the Sectional Qualifying Round and finished third in the State in Division 2," stated veteran Coach Bob Lawson. "That was an excellent team, too, but from top to bottom I think this team has more depth."

"These kids worked hard and there was a lot of comradery. They got along well together, and there was usually some good-natured fooling around at practice. But it was all business when the matches started. They represented themselves and the school very well all year."

The Golden Warriors shared the Merrimack Valley Conference championship with Chelmsford during the regular season last fall, finishing 13-1-1 in league matches.

They then qualified first in the Division 1 North Sectionals at Beverly Golf and Tennis Club last November.

That advanced AHS into Monday's 13-team All-State Tournament, where they finished in a three-way tie for third place with 332 strokes.

The only two Division 1 golf teams in Massachusetts that placed ahead of Andover were champion Xaverian High of Westwood (313 strokes) and runner-up Dennis-Yarmouth (322).

"It's the best we've ever done in Division 1 and I'm extremely proud of the kids," noted Coach Lawson. "There is quite a gap from the time you qualify (November) until the actual time you play the State final (June), but from what I could tell most of them have been playing regularly this spring."

"We went out for a few team practices during the past two weeks. But it's tough to get your game back up to par totally when you're not playing matches every week."

Hinchey medalist

Junior Dan Hinchey was the Andover State Tournament medalist at Ferncroft with an 18-hole score of 79.

Six players competed from each team with the four low scores counting towards the team total.

Senior Co-Captains Jim Ofria and Matt Harris both carded 81 in the State finals, while senior Rich Yost fired a 91.

Also playing for AHS were junior Greg LeBreck (93) and senior Paul Bernardin.

"Ferncroft's a beautiful course with two different and distinct personalities," explained Lawson. "The front side is pretty wide open and the back nine is mostly through the woods."

"Matt, Jim and Dan all looked on top of their game," noted Lawson.

Both Harris and Ofria had captured gross awards with their dads over the weekend in the annual Family Day Tournaments at Indian Ridge Country Club.

Matt and his father Red were second in the Father-Son 15-and-over division with a gross 76, while Jim and his father Jim Sr. were a stroke behind in third place.

Harris is also a member of the Andover track team's State champion 4x100 meter sprint relay team, which won that title last Saturday at Bridgewater State College.

He will compete in the New England Championship Meet this Saturday in East Hartford, Ct.

Paul Bernardin is the Andover boys' tennis team's All-Conference No. 1 singles player, but that conflict ended last week when the Warriors were ousted from the North Sectional Division 1 Tournament in the semifinal round.

A third golf team member, junior

Andover's David Miles named to national academic baseball team

Merrimack College junior David Miles of Andover has been named to the GTE/College Sports Information Directors of America National Academic All-America Team in baseball.

Miles is one of two MC athletes so honored, the other being sophomore softball pitcher Kim Page of Dracut, and together the pair are the first from Merrimack to make the National team since 1984.

Both were selected to the third team.

Miles, a Central Catholic graduate, holds a 3.92 grade point average as an accounting major.

He posted an overall pitching record of 6-2 with a 2.36 earned run average this spring, the E.R.A. 35th best in Division 2 across the nation.

Miles also earned both Northeast-10 Conference and American Baseball Coaches Association Northeast Regional second-team laurels for his efforts.

He pitched in the New England Collegiate Baseball All-Star Game at Fenway Park in late May, retiring the side in 1-2-3 order in his one inning of work.

Miles owns a career record of 12-6 at Merrimack, including a no-hitter as a freshman against Queens, N.Y. College and two victories in the Northeast-10 playoffs.

He achieved a perfect 4.0 GPA during each semester at Merrimack this year.

Justin Hesenius, was unable to play because of his involvement with the AHS baseball team.

Hesenius was scheduled to pitch yesterday's State Division 1 semifinal round game against Dartmouth High.

"We missed Justin. Could have used him," stated Coach Lawson. "But I fully understand his commitment to the baseball team and have no problem with his decision to concentrate on that sport."

Top players

The top players for Andover golf during the 1991-'92 season included Jim Ofria, Matt Harris, Justin Hesenius, Greg LeBreck, Rich Yost, Dan Hinchey, John Gabriel, Mike Mazza, Jesse Ciccione and freshman Dan Hansberry.

Senior Co-Captains Ofria and Harris also qualified last fall for the All-State Individual Championships, and were scheduled to compete in the finals at Chicopee Country Club in Western Massachusetts recently.

However that tournament was in direct conflict with the Andover High senior class trip, and both AHS players opted to go on the trip.

"It was their decision to make and I really can't quarrel with it," said Coach Lawson. "It was just an unfortunate circumstance. I was hoping they might postpone the golf a day or two because of the poor weather (rainy and cool), but they held it as scheduled."

Peter Maki of Franklin High successfully defended his title by shooting a 36-hole score of 78-74-152.

Tennis teams ousted from tourney in semifinal round

By Rick Harrison

There was symmetry to the end of the 1992 season for the Andover High boys' and girls' tennis teams, as both were eliminated from the Eastern Mass. Division 1 North Sectional Tournament in the semifinal round.

The boys were bounced by Lincoln-Sudbury, 4-1, and the girls edged by Framingham, 3-2, which still left both among the top 16 teams in the State.

The defeat to Framingham was the first of the season for Coach Tony Russo's Lady Warriors, who finished 18-1 overall including earlier 4-1 tournament triumphs over Lexington and Peabody.

The eight-time reigning Merrimack Valley Conference champions, graduating only three seniors, will start next season 106-1 in their last 107 league matches and 114-7 in their last 121 including tourney play.

Coach Mike Wartman's boys, whose seven-year hold on the MVC title was broken by Chelmsford this spring, closed at 16-3 overall.

The AHS boys lose five seniors, two of them key players, and will open next year 121-9 in their last 130 league matches and 144-17 overall in the last 161.

The Framingham girls were subsequently routed 5-0 by State champ Concord-Carlisle, while the Lincoln-Sudbury boys continued to the Division 1 state tourney.

The Concord-Carlisle girls have won the State Division 1 championship eight of the last nine years, are undefeated in 121 straight Dual County League matches, and proceeded to beat Longmeadow (3-2) and Hingham in the State tourney.

The key graduates for the Lady Warriors are Co-Captains Kim Heller and Nathalie LeMaitre, along with Ari Boutin, while the AHS boys lose Co-Captains Paul Bernardin and Doug Cullen as well as Adam Ferry, Rich Yost and Thera Palanisamy.

Andover girls

Sophomore No. 1 Alison Georgian and sophomore No. 3 Carrie Green were singles' victors in the 4-1 quarter-final round decision over Peabody.

Georgian, who won all three of her tournament matches and finished the season with an overall 17-1 record, had a second-set concentration lapse but recovered for a 6-3, 5-7, 6-1 win over the Tanners' Dacia Kornechuck.

Carrie Green, who was 11-4 overall this season, registered a steady 6-3, 7-5 win over Hillary Millstein.

The Lady Warriors also swept the doubles.

Junior No. 1 players Beth Everett and Julie Doherty, with a final record of 11-2, had little trouble with Denise Hui and Toni DiMare in a 6-3, 6-2 romp.

The No. 2 tandem of junior Kara Gack and LeMaitre beat Peabody's Amy Clark and Andrea Janakas by an identical 6-3, 6-2 score.

Senior Co-Captain Kim Heller, 11-1 overall, lost for the first time at No. 2 when Corey Grand of Peabody scored a 6-1, 6-3 straight-set victory.

The Tanners bowed out with a 14-2 record.

Framingham, 3-2

How would the Andover girls have done against Concord-Carlisle?

No one will ever know (thanks to Bay State League champ Framingham).

The merger of Framingham North and South high schools has greatly strengthened the city's athletic program, and in this Sectional semifinal the No. 3 seed used a pair of three-set victories in doubles to key a tight 3-2 decision over No. 2 seed Andover.

The match was so close, in fact, that a mere two games separated AHS from advancing to the final. A 7-5 second-set loss in second doubles, if reversed, would have swayed the verdict.

Alison Georgian remained perfect in team tournament play with a 7-6, 6-2 win against Rebecca Black, and Kim Heller gave Andover its second point with a 7-5, 6-1 sweep of Hilary Forman.

Alison Herron put Framingham on the board by overpowering Carrie Green 6-0, 6-2 in third singles.

Julie Doherty and Beth Everett battled to the wire in first doubles, but Traci Shulman and Lisa Cunniff of Framingham pulled away at the end for a 6-2, 3-6, 6-2 triumph.

Second doubles Kara Gack and senior Co-Captain Nathalie LeMaitre got the jump on opponents Lisa Chodnolski and Meredith Ruben, winning the first set 6-3.

But the Framingham duo regrouped and eked out a 7-5 victory in the second set, then carried the momentum over for a 6-2 triumph in the deciding set.

Andover boys

The 4-1 loss to Lincoln-Sudbury was much closer than the final score, with three of the four L-S points achieved in gruelling three setters.

One match went down to a third-set tiebreaker, and another was settled by a 7-5 score in the deciding set.

The lone Golden Warrior winner was sophomore Dan Queen at third singles, as he capped off a 17-2 campaign (3-0 in tourney) with a hard-fought 7-5, 7-6 victory over Matt Hyotte. The tiebreaker went into overtime before Queen pulled it out 8-6.

Andover lost the other two singles in three sets, with senior Co-Captain Paul Bernardin falling to Greg Stolle 4-6, 6-3, 3-6 at No. 1 and junior Eric Block dropping a 2-6, 6-3, 5-7 marathon to Ian Bensman.

Bernardin finished with a 15-5 overall record, while Block was 17-4 including individual and team tournament play.

Previously-undefeated No. 2 doubles tandem John Faldetta and sophomore Jon Iarrobino were nudged 2-6, 6-4, 6-7 by Lincoln-Sudbury's Frank Nippenberg and Mike Adams. The tiebreaker ended 7-2.

Faldetta and Iarrobino, who didn't get together until the season was more than half over, finished with a 6-1 record.

Lincoln-Sudbury's Eastern Mass. North Individual Tournament doubles champions, Dan Peppercorn and Jim Hwang, showed why they're among the best in the State by blitzing Andover junior Erik Dahlstrand and senior Co-Captain Doug Cullen 6-0, 6-1.

Cullen and Dahlstrand completed the campaign at 11-4 overall.

In a story on page 56 of last week's Townsmen, an error was made in a story, "Tennis teams open tourney with victories." It should have said Carrie Green lost to Lexington's Saloko Minowa.

Andover gymnasts bring home trophies for YMCA

Three Andover girls from the Andover/North Andover YMCA competed at the Regional Gymnastics championships in Glastonbury, Conn., May 15-17 and brought home trophies. Meghan O'Connell, 8, placed 11th all around with a 33.05 in a field of 99 girls. She placed second on floor with an 8.65 and ninth on bars with an 8.6. This was her first year on the competitive team. Meghan trained on the Hot Tots developmental team last year at the YMCA and is a Level 4 this year. She aspires to level 5 or 6 next year.

Devin Starr, 12, a Level 7 optional gymnast, turned in her best performance to date to place second all around with 31.95. Her uneven bar routine earned an 8.65 and first place. She also placed fourth on balance beam, fifth on vault and seventh on floor exercise. Devin has been with the YMCA team for four years and hopes to compete as an 8 optional next year.

Tania Pierce, 17, competed with an injured back but still managed to pull off some of her best routines, earning herself the third place all around trophy and a score of 34.0. She took first place in horse vaulting with an 8.6. She placed second on beam, seventh on floor and fifth on uneven bars. This is Tania's eighth and last year with the Andover/North Andover YMCA team. She graduates this year and will go to Penn State next fall.

Both Tania and Devin made the team for the North-South Meet that was held June 7 in Madison, N.J.

The Andover team sent three 10-year-old level 6 girls to the regional meet. Lindsey Rudolph placed fifth on bars and sixth on floor. Duyen Luong placed seventh on vault and 12th beam. Kathleen McCumber placed 10th on beam and 11th on bars.

In addition to Meghan, four other level 4 girls placed on individual events: Phoebe Eustis, 10th on uneven bars; Julie Castignetti, 10th on vault; Becky Dann, 11th on vault; and Allison St. Jean, 12th, also on vault.

The Andover/North Andover YMCA Team sent 30 girls to compete at the regional meet held over three days in Connecticut. All the girls had to qualify twice to compete in this meet. They were Jessie Fink, Rachel Hartman, Stephanie Varley, Susan Wood, Caroline Crocker, Diane Flanagan, Jenn Pinta and Nicki Shoemaker, all level 4. Level 5 girls were Dawn Aiello, Kate Gerry, Peggy Eghbalian, Rachel Cohen, Caitlin Neri, Hope Scandore, Jenn Mangano, Laura Guastafarro and Maddy Eustis. Level 7 optional girls were Stephanie Brown and Sarah Conrad. Stacy Thresher competed at Level 8 optional.

These gymnasts, from top to bottom are, Tania Pierce, Devin Starr and Meghan O'Connell. They recently participated in the Regional Gymnastics championships in Glastonbury, Conn.

Level 5 girls were Dawn Aiello, Kate Gerry, Peggy Eghbalian, Rachel Cohen, Caitlin Neri, Hope Scandore, Jenn Mangano, Laura Guastafarro and Maddy Eustis. Level 7 optional girls were Stephanie Brown and Sarah Conrad. Stacy Thresher competed at Level 8 optional.

Lifeguard training course offered

The Andover/North Andover branch of the Merrimack Valley YMCA will offer a Red Cross lifeguard training course Mondays and Wednesdays, June 14-July 27, from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m. This course provides the necessary minimum skills training to qualify an individual as a non-surf lifeguard.

Candidates must be at least 15 years old and capable of performing a surface dive in 10' of water, an underwater swim for 20' and a continuous swim for 500 yards in good form.

The Red Cross lifeguard training course requires CPR and standard first aid for successful completion.

For more information, call the Andover/North Andover YMCA.

Laurie Willey captured a bronze medal for the floor exercise at the N.H. Gymnastics State Cup Competition.

Laurie Willey wins bronze medal for floor exercise

More than 120 gymnasts competed for medals Sunday, May 17, at Port Gymnastics in Plaistow, N.H., the site of the annual USGF-sanctioned N.H. Gymnastics State Cup Competition.

Laurie Willey, a fifth-grader at West Elementary School, captured a bronze medal in the level 6 children's division for her score of 8.1 on the floor exercise. She completed the competition with an all-around score of 30.15.

Laurie has competed at Port Gymnastics for two years and holds the Port Gym record for the highest level 5 all-around score of 33.9, which she attained in a sectional meet in February. She also holds two other gym records for level 5 competition: 8.8 on uneven bars and 8.45 on the beam.

Laurie, one of four daughters of Lloyd and Lynn Willey, lives at 5 Wedgewood Drive.

Gretchen Fuhr, 9, of Andover, is a member of the Level 5 gymnastic team at Walker's Gymnastics and Dance of Lowell. Gretchen and her teammates placed first in the State Competition in Northboro. She has been a Level 5 competitor since February. She is shown here with her coach, Eric Saunders.

Andover notched a pair of unearned runs in the third stanza without benefit of a hit, combining three walks, a hit batsman and two Lancer errors on mis-played bunts.

Throughout the game, in fact, the Warriors exploited Malden Catholic's weak fielding and coverage on bunts.

Hesenius hoisted his second sacrifice fly to highlight another hitless, two-run sixth inning, Daniels spanked an RBI single in the seventh, and the defending State champs added two more pad runs in the eighth.

Matt Daniels went 3-for-4 to spark the 10-hit attack, Bob Sheehan contributed two hits, and scoring twice each were Sheehan, Hesenius, Lembo and Wolcott.

Junior righthander Scott Henry pitched the last two innings, blanking Malden Catholic on no hits and fanning three.

Defensively first baseman Mike Daley and catcher Matt Daniels led the way.

Andover, 7-4

The Golden Warriors got away clean despite one of their poorest performances of the season, beating St. John's Prep for the second straight year in the tournament semifinals (9-0 last June).

Justin Hesenius worked seven creditable innings en route to his eighth victory in 10 decisions, scattering 10 hits and striking out seven at the neutral Wilmington High field.

Hesenius was strongest in the tough situations, pitching out of several jams as SJP stranded six runners in scoring position and left 10 on base overall.

Nothing was more frustrating for the Catholic Conference member than the opening stanza, where Hesenius extricated himself from a major predicament by picking a runner off third base.

Massachusetts Gatorade Player-of-the-Year Jim Hanning came on in the eighth and ninth to nail down the victory, retiring the Eagles without a hit or run.

The Andover defense was uncharacteristically shaky, making things tougher on Hesenius than they should have been.

For the second straight tournament game AHS fell behind 1-0 in the first, then erupted to score most of its runs in the early innings.

The Golden Warriors went down 1-2-3 in the first, but Hesenius (3-for-3, on base five straight times) led the second stanza with a walk. Jim Landry laid down a sacrifice bunt, and three throwing errors later Andover was ahead for good, 2-1.

The Merrimack Valley Conference

Scott Henry came through with his second post-season relief effort, preserving the 7-2 win over Arlington.

Large School champs made it 5-1 with three runs in the third, but saw scrappy St. John's chip away to trail just 5-4 after seven.

Andover's third two-run, no-hit inning of the tourney provided the insurance in the bottom of the eighth. A hit batsman, three walks and a pair of sacrifice flies did the damage.

Bob Sheehan remained on his second-half-of-the-season offensive tear, lacing two more hits, while single safeties were contributed by Josh Nelkin, Tri-Captain Jim Landry and Tri-Captain Jim Hanning.

Landry and Hesenius scored a pair of runs each.

Andover's Matt Marvin, a rangy righthander, worked in relief for The Prep and fanned four during his stint.

Andover, 7-2

Jim Hanning worked seven strong shutout innings, exiting with a 7-0 lead. He yielded just two hits, struck out seven and walked five.

The game was moved to a day later because of rain, a vital postponement that gave Hanning's golden left limb an important extra day of rest.

Catcher Matt Daniels resumed his clutch hitting in the tournament with a two-run single in the second stanza that put AHS on the board.

In the third Justin Hesenius clouted an RBI triple, rescuing Josh Nelkin, and Bob Sheehan singled home sophomore Toby Guzowski in the fourth.

Hesenius hammered a run-scoring double in the fifth, plating sophomore Matt Wolcott who had been hit by a pitch, and then Guzowski singled home Hesenius to make it 6-0.

Chris Lembo doubled and scored the final run in the sixth.

Arlington, the Greater-Boston League champion, nicked junior south-paw Scott Eggert for a pair of runs in the eighth.

Scott Henry came through with his second solid post-season relief effort, shutting down the Spy Ponders to preserve Hanning's lucky 13th victory.

Sheehan, hitting over .600 the second half of the season, boosted his average to .442 with four hits (34-for-77).

Hesenius' double and triple boosted his average to a lusty .397 on 27-for-68. The triple was his team-high fifth of the season and he also drove home his leading 25th and 26th RBI.

Nearly 100 walkers joined more than 100 runners to race through the streets of Greater Lawrence recently to help raise funds for adults with mental retardation. Sponsored by 10 area nursing homes, the five mile run/walk benefited Creative Living, Inc., a non-profit group that has established a residence for these adults.

200 participate in GLAD Road Race

More than 200 runners and walkers, and many other volunteers and friends, recently participated in the fifth annual GLAD Road Race, a five-mile run/walk sponsored by 10 area nursing homes to help raise funds for adult retarded citizens in Greater Lawrence.

Sponsored by the Greater Lawrence Activities Directors (GLAD), the run/walk kicked off at the Prescott Nursing Home in North Andover. The event featured awards for top runners and walkers.

The first male runner to cross the finish line was Scott Brennan with a time of 28:01. The first female runner was Lusann Simmons with a time of 31:51. The first walkers to cross the finish line were Helen Anderson (58:37) and Bob Aucoin (47:45).

Awards were presented to the three top male and female winners runners and walkers for various age groups. Each participant received a special GLAD race T-shirt.

Many nursing home residents and employees and volunteers from Creative Living and Andover High School were on hand to register participants, direct traffic and man water stations. The race, held in celebration of National Nursing Home Week, provided an opportunity for nursing home residents to participate in and interact with the community.

Proceeds of the GLAD Race are donated to Creative Living Inc., a local, non-profit group that has established a residence for adults with mental retardation. The Creative Living home in Andover also provides social activities for these adults and their families.

"The help of so many people contributed to the success of this road race," noted Arline Basile, activities director at Prescott Nursing Home and Creative Living board member. "We thank everyone - GLAD members, volunteers, the North Andover Police Department, Kathy Drouin and so many others - for helping our dream of the Creative Living home to grow."

The nursing homes in Greater Lawrence that sponsored the GLAD Race were Academy Manor, Berkeley, Blenheim, Broadway, German Home, Henry C. Nevins Home, Prescott Home, Sutton Hill Nursing and Retirement Center, Town Manor and Woodmill. The Greater Lawrence Activities Director is a group of professionals who plan and coordinate programs for residents in area nursing homes.

Andover High School track: Jason McCue looks for his personal triple crown Saturday

By Rick Harrison

The saga of Jason McCue continues, and now the recently-named All-Scholastic has just one more "hurdle" to clear to complete a perfect season.

This Saturday he must actually clear 10 hurdles and beat the champions from five other New England states to immortalize himself in the Andover High record books.

Last weekend McCue remained unbeaten in the 110-meter high hurdles, capturing his first state title at the All-State Track and Field Championships held at Bridgewater State College.

The University of Rhode Island track scholarship recruit, who will also play football in college, now ranks alongside Van Debose and current assistant coach Peter Comeau as the premiere hurdlers in AHS track history.

Jason officially grabbed his share of the crown by winning the State title.

But he still has one important piece of unfinished business.

He has the first two jewels in his personal triple crown quest, winning the Eastern Mass. Class B and All-State titles.

In 48 hours McCue will try to complete the rare trifecta by winning again at the New England Championships in East Hartford, Conn.

If he breaks the tape one more time his dream season will be complete.

Chances are no one in Massachusetts is betting against him.

"I don't know much about the hurdlers in the other states but I think Jason has a good shot," said Golden Warriors' Coach Dick Collins.

McCue has earned that respect by coming a long, long way in a short time.

Collins couldn't even remember if he competed as a sophomore, and last spring Jason was doing well until a pulled leg muscle the night before the Northern Area Meet kept him sidelined through the Class B, All-State and New England.

"He was good last year, before the injury, but his improvement this season has been tremendous.

"Jason's strengths are his aggressiveness and determination. He just doesn't want to lose.

"He's extremely fast. He could be an outstanding sprinter, and he probably would have preferred that at one time," admitted Collins. "But we pushed him into the hurdles, thinking his chances to go to the top were much greater in that event. And time has proven us right.

"If you have the aggressiveness to attack the hurdles, and the flexibility to get over them, the sky's the limit. Jason has both. He's a clone of Van Debose. Smallish in stature for a hurdler, but tall in talent.

"Jason is good at a lot of other things, but he's found his niche in the hurdles. That's where he really excels."

Andover boys second

McCue's first in the hurdles, and a victory by the 4x100 meter sprint relay team which features McCue running the first leg, sparked Andover to a second place finish overall in the boys' team competition at the All-States.

Eastern Mass. Class A champ Brockton High, with four winners, ran away and hid from the rest of the field with 54 points. Class B titlist Andover had 32.

Matt Harris, Steve Shepard and Jamie Damon joined double State titlist McCue on Andover's jet-propelled 4x100 meter sprint relay team that blistered the distance in 43.2.

"The relay team ran exceptionally well," noted Collins. "They were flying. They won the race cleanly, by about three yards, over Weymouth which won the Class A title the previous week."

McCue ran the 110 meter highs in 14.6, slightly above his personal-best school record tying 14.3 but plenty fast enough to win.

The official times were calibrated electronically, although the hand time on McCue in the hurdles was 14.3 and on the relay team it was 42.9.

The Golden Warrior boys performed up to Coach Collins' expectations. He felt a State title was not an unreasonable possibility, although the spectre of Brockton High was always there.

"The kids did well and overall it was a gratifying day. This meet is very difficult to win because it's so difficult to qualify," explained Collins.

The top four finishers in four Eastern Mass. Class Meets, Central Mass. and Western Mass. get together at the All-States.

"We only had five individuals and a relay team. If all of them had won we still couldn't have beaten Brockton," noted Collins.

The Andover boys have won the All-State crown six times in the past, and also have a number of second place finishes.

"It's not a good way to judge a team's overall strength, but you take pride in it because it is the State Meet. For us to finish second to a team of Brockton's caliber is quite a feather in our cap."

This was only the second time this spring the AHS boys didn't come out on top (Reading won State Class B Relays), their string of successes including the Merrimack Valley Conference Large School title (9-0-0 in dual meets) and team championships at the Haverhill Invitational, Andover Boosters Invitational, Northern Area Meet, MVC Championship Meet and Eastern Mass. Class B Meet.

Shepard runnerup

Adding All-State points last weekend were junior Steve Shepard, who placed second in the 300-meter intermediate hurdles in 39.1, and senior Bob Dalton who tossed the discus a personal-best 148'1" for fourth place.

EMass. Class B champ Shepard had not lost a hurdles race this spring until the All-States, but the winner from Brockton ran a Denise Carriere, 18, of 78 Chandler Road, won three gold medals in swimming at the area Special Olympics games on Saturday, May 2, at Cawley Stadium in Lowell. She won the 25-meter freestyle, the 25-meter backstroke and the 50-meter freestyle. Ms. Carriere's wins also qualified her to take part in the Massachusetts Special Olympics state games at Boston College on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, June 19-21.

For tickets, call the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation at 655-6000.

Mr. Radatz, nicknamed "The Monster" because of his impressive build, holds a 10-year career in professional baseball, including eight seasons with the Boston Red Sox. He is a board member of the MLBPA, an organization which helps provide assistance to retired players that may not have benefited from financial security. The MLBPA and Joey Fund/Cystic Fibrosis Foundation have joined forces in Massachusetts over the past four years by holding an alumni baseball player golf tournament. This year the committee has added a roast of Dick Radatz to its fund-raising agenda.

"We have alumni players calling us to be sure they get a shot at Dick Radatz," said Jerry Moses, ex-Red Sox catcher and roast chairman.

"The entire evening will be filled with a lot of laughs and memories while raising some money for these two worthy causes. Everyone will benefit."

Cystic Fibrosis, the most common fatal genetic disease in our country today, affects the lungs and digestive system. Foundation-supported researchers identified the deadly gene which causes CF, but have not yet discovered a cure for the 30,000 young people afflicted with the disease.

spectacular 38.5.

"Steve is up against a real first-class performer," admitted Collins.

"Steve had trouble with his steps on the first hurdles, and again on the next-to-last hurdle. It's virtually impossible to run a perfect race, especially in the hurdles, but if everything broke right for Steve (in the New England) he'd have a shot at the Brockton kid."

Dalton's discus throw amazed Collins. "It's incredible what he's done the past two weeks," said the veteran AHS coach. "He threw 141 feet in the Class B Meet, a personal best by six feet, and then he jumped up another seven feet in the All-State Meet."

Also competing for the Andover boys were freshman long jumper Brian Marshall, who didn't place, and sprinter Jamie Damon who reached the 100-meter dash finals but did not score.

away from the All-State Meet with 12 points, thanks to a pair of third-place finishes by senior Holly Clark in the 300-meter intermediate hurdles and the 4x100 meter sprint relay quartet of underclassmen Amy Levesque, Alex Wendt, Jamie Barron and senior Jill Ippolito.

That placed them in the top 10, but 16 points behind girls' team champ Falmouth High.

"Falmouth went there with two girls and a relay team," said Collins. "They won it with a pair of first places and a second."

Previously-undefeated EMass. Class B champ Holly Clark, another member of Andover's incredible stable of elite hurdlers, turned in a personal-best 45.3 clocking en route to her third place.

"Holly has two incredible hurdlers ahead of her, including the winning girl from Falmouth whose time was in the 44-second range," noted Collins.

The 400-meter relay four-some, which also captured the Class B title the previous week, crossed in 50.1 seconds en route to third place.

Coach Collins did not feel the weather affected the meet.

"It was damp and raining lightly when we got to Bridgewater," he noted. "But it stopped soon afterwards and was just muggy the rest of the day."

Each of the athletes who scored for Andover in the All-States earned a trip to East Hartford.

dles (16.7), Catherine Cornell in the 300-meter hurdles (53.8), and the 4x100 sprint relay team of Diana Dresser, Jackie Flowers, Heather Whiles and Melissa Gould (55.5).

Andover boys winning their events were junior pole vaulter Tadg Corkery (10'0"), two-miler Max Dawson (10:43.1), and the 4x100 meter sprint relay crew of junior Brian Croteau, sophomore Rob Weisman, Desmond and Captain Ryan Kelly.

Board of Health considering banning smoking in town offices

By Don Staruk

Employees at town offices are gearing up for a public hearing this Monday night at which the Board of Health will be considering whether to ban smoking completely from the building.

"What we've done is proposed a smoke-free environment," Everett Penney, health director, said this week.

Smoking is currently allowed only in private offices and in the second-floor lunch room of the building. But the ventilation system in the building was designed to be energy efficient and recirculate air in the building. It recirculates the lunch room smoke throughout the building and has resulted in complaints from several nonsmokers, according to Mr. Penney.

Some of the 10 to 12 smokers of the roughly 60 employees oppose the ban, and Mr. Penney said board members are trying to be fair to both sides, but the "balance has to be struck in protecting the public health."

A public hearing is scheduled for this Monday, at 7 p.m., at town offices on Bartlett Street to discuss the proposal. If officials go ahead with the proposal, a regulation would be adopted by the Board of Health and violators could face fines.

This would be a model program for the town and could be a stepping stone to dealing with the entire problem of indoor smoke pollution, according to Mr. Penney.

"It is designed as a pilot program to evaluate smoking regulation in general," Mr. Penney said.

Mr. Penney said that, if successful in town offices, the policy could be adopted in other municipal buildings and private institutions in town. The ban would go further than the state's policy, which allows smoking only in designated areas of state buildings, and would be comparable to policies already in place in hospitals and some private businesses. Ernie's Country Kitchen, in Ballardvale, is one of the businesses in town that has already adopted a smoke-free environment.

Health officials have been considering adopting the proposal at town offices for at least six months, according to Mr. Penney, but waited for the better weather for those smokers who will choose to go outside to smoke.

In a report last month, the Environmental Protection Agency declared second-hand cigarette smoke a cancer-causing carcinogen, according to Mr. Penney.

Nicotine addiction is also a "serious public-health problem," according to Mr. Penney, and the town will take steps to support smokers who want to quit.

A "Fresh Start" program, paid for and run by the American Cancer Society, will be offered to employees free of charge at town offices during the month of July.

Counseling from the Employee Assistance Program will also be available, according to Mr. Penney.

"We're trying to make it a positive approach as much as possible," he said.

Firefighter gets accidental disability approved the involuntary ordinary disability retirement.

In October, 1989, upon receipt of an appeals court decision that an aggravation of a pre-existing condition is compensable, the town requested the state employee retirement administration change Mr. Poole's ordinary disability claim to an accidental disability claim.

But the state board, which must approve municipal employee retirements, found that Mr. Poole's disability was "not such as might be the natural and proximate result of the personal injury sustained." The state board changed the "clearly aggravated" wording in the medical panel's report to "temporarily aggravated," and the accidental disability was denied. Mr. Poole appealed. CRAB decided to review his case in February and found in his favor

Smoking is currently allowed only in private offices and in the second-floor lunch room of the building. But the ventilation system in the building was designed to be energy efficient and recirculate air in the building.

DOWN THE YEARS

100 years ago, June 1892

Charles H. Pearson has the cellar completed for the cottage house to be erected on his Eastvale lot. It will be put up at once and Mr. Waldo of the Scotland district has the contract.

The first open air concert by the Andover band was held Wednesday evening and was heartily enjoyed by almost everyone in town for everybody was on the street.

William Frosch caught 32 pickerel Monday and Allan Simpson had a very handsome string the same day.

Emil Hoffman participated in the great shooting match at the Wellington Gun Club grounds Monday. He stood second and third in several events.

It is said that P. Daley has bought the strip of land in Andover running from the Memorial ball grounds to Pearson St. There is nothing new in regard to the horses for the steamer, although something will probably be done at once.

Martin Heffernan, an old employee of the Craighead & Kintz Co., has left their employ.

Joshua Bailey has sold his horses to A. N. Bean, of Lawrence, and the wagons and trucks to Alfred Playdon.

The closing exercises of the village school will probably be held in Smith's Hall.

Mrs. James Quinn of Malden visited relatives in town Wednesday.

Mrs. James Harry Kidder has sent out invitations for a Red Cross tea and card party next Thursday and the proceeds will go to the yarn fund.

Military Enrollment: Next Tuesday at the Lower Town Hall and Old School House, Ballardvale.

ALL males between the ages of 21 and 31 of every nationality, race or creed, even the sick must register. It makes no difference that you are not liable to military service, you still must register. If there is a man without hands or feet, even he must register. Sick can register by sending a representative to the Town Clerk who will instruct them. The local fire department responded to an alarm at 7:30 o'clock Saturday morning to find the "L" of the Louis-Kibee residence on Park road in flames. The occupants of the house were asleep at the time and were awakened by smell of smoke and the crackling of the flames. Upon the arrival of the fire department, the "L" of the building was well enveloped in flames. For a time it looked as though the entire house would be destroyed, for not only had the fire a good headway, but the brisk blaze was fanned by a strong wind. The prompt arrival of the excellent and efficient service of the fire department how-

Pictured above is Rusty Rokes, who runs the Lobster Pound in Cape Porpoise, Maine, delivering fresh Maine lobsters to Kevin Casey of Lanford's Seafoods. This year's lobster season has been a little late in starting, but it's here now and prices should soon reflect the abundance of these summertime favorites.

Summertime means cookouts, and seafood is perfect for cooking on the grill. Some favorites available at Lanford's are salmon, mackerel, swordfish, and tuna. If you are planning a clam bake, Lanford's carries all the ingredients you need: lobsters, steamers, quahogs and cherrystones.

PA expects to see 1,000 on campus this weekend

By Betsy Frankenberger

More than 1,000 alumni from the classes ending in '2 and '7 will attend Phillips Academy's reunion activities this weekend.

Events will take place in all locations of the Phillips Academy campus. Beginning Friday at noon, former students will be able to enjoy activities such as the Andover film festival, featuring Andover films and videotapes; historical walking tours of the Oliver Wendell Holmes Library, Addison Art Gallery and George Washington Hall; and a Carillon Music Festival.

On Saturday, in addition to daily events planned — including breakfast at Commons, Alumni Parade, open house at Robert S. Peabody Museum of Archaeology, and the traditional Abbot tea— there will be a special musical presentation by the musical group Rising Storm, which originated at PA in 1967, and is presently on tour. Rising Storm will host the Andover dance party, which will take place at the Cage.

Breakfast and church services are planned for Sunday morning.

The fifth registration for the draft will be held on Tuesday between 7 a.m. and 9 p.m. at the Town House. All young men born on or after January 1, 1922, or on or before June 30, 1924, will be required to register.

Andover's playground instructors will be required to take a course in defense work this year, so that in the event of an emergency the proper precautions may be taken at the playgrounds. Stafford A. Lindsay, Chairman of the playground committee, has been named playground defense co-ordinator in accordance with a state request.

The course will take six hours, and will be held next Monday and Tuesday evenings, starting at 7:30, in the court room, lower town hall.

After the course there will be an examination, and certificates will be issued to those who pass.

The playgrounds will be open on July first. The first three days will be devoted to registration and equipment will go up July 6.

The registration for gas rationing has been deferred one week according to word received here officially yesterday.

The Carnegie Foundation has awarded a $69,000 grant to Phillips Academy in Andover, Phillips Exeter Academy, the Hill School, and Lawrenceville Academy to make a one-year study of the "desirability and feasibility of a significant change in the structure and function of the four independent schools."

The study will attempt to determine the validity of combining the 11th and 12th grades of secondary education at the four-year schools with the first two years of college. This investigation was recommended by the headmasters of the four schools because of the growing conviction that the "traditional division at the end of grade 12 between school and college bears little relationship to academic developments of the past several years."

The committee is concerned with the duplication of courses in early college years and also with the trend of earlier specialization which undermines the concept of a broad general education.

The School Committee has asked Athletic Director Donald Dunn to spell out in greater detail his reasons for recommending that Andover replace its present intramural hockey program with a varsity program next school year.

Some committee members expressed particular interest last week in knowing if the switch to a varsity program would deprive some who are interested in the sport of the opportunity to participate.

Kimberly A. Lilly, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. William Lilly of Dascumb Road is completing a month's study tour of the USSR as part of a Bates College short term offering in the Department of the Foreign Languages. The group will visit Moscow, Kiev, Tbilisi, Erevan, Riga and Leningrad.

Lilly is a senior majoring in Russian Studies. After her return from the tour, she will spend the summer at Middlebury College in the Russian School.

She is a 1980 graduate of Phillips Academy.

The 20th Annual Sidewalk Bazaar, sponsored by the Andover Center Association, will take place on Friday and Saturday. All Andover non-profit organizations are invited to participate and should register with the Chamber of commerce for a location on Main Street during the two-day event.

Lycoming College to meet at the Andover Inn

The New England Alumni Club of Lycoming College will hold a reception Sunday, June 14, at the Andover Inn on the Phillips Academy campus.

The reception will run from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m.

Coordinator for the event is Jim Scott (70) of Newburyport, 465-2046.

Registry has automated testing now

Jerold A. Gnazzo, registrar of motor vehicles, announced a new method of testing license applicants by implementing automated testing. The introduction of automated testing replaces the time-consuming written examinations. License applicants are seated in front of a terminal and immediately begin to take their test.

The automated testing offers applicants 10 questions selected from a data base of more than 100 questions. Applicants must answer seven out of 10 questions correctly to pass. Some of the questions include colorful graphics. Testing is available in Spanish with additional foreign language exams scheduled in the future. Verbal examinations in English and Spanish are also available.

One of the biggest advantages of the new automat testing is that clerks can process applicants more quickly because the system automatically grades the test.

for pleasure or get a snack."

Favorite study food: Pizza, cheese, "because it is cheapest."

Idol or hero: Lao-tzu, Chinese philosopher.

Would you go to the same school again? Definitely.

Music choice: Everything from classical rock to Raggaee and jazz.

Favorite movie: Anything by producer Terry Gilliam, whose latest works include The Fisher King and Brazil.

Favorite Book: Zen and the Art of Archery by Eugene Herrigel.

Favorite vacation: Three weeks spent in Italy with a group from school during his sophomore year.

By Lisa Boudreau

Zach Sung, 17, mastered balancing academic achievement and many extracurricular activities by adopting a philosophy similar to that of fifth-century B.C. Chinese philosopher Lao-tzu.

"He had the right idea: Balance rather than excess, humility rather than pride, and doing your work and not expecting to be rewarded for it," he said.

Whether or not he expected to be rewarded for his achievements, Mr. Sung, the son of Bing Sung, of Andover, and Kathryn Merriam of Outstanding seniors

(Chinese philosopher Lao-tzu) 'had the right idea: Balance rather than excess, humility rather than pride, and doing your work and not expecting to be rewarded for it.'

Dover, Vt., received several awards, including one from the National Council of English Teachers. He was a National Merit Finalist; he won the Brooks headmaster's prize for contributing to the school in both academic and extracurricular activities; he won the English department prize; and he received the senior class prize for maintaining the highest average, 96.1 percent, which he shared with another graduate.

Mr. Sung said if he had a chance to choose another school, he'd still go to Brooks. In fact, his younger brother Nick will be a sophomore at the school this fall.

"I really enjoyed the size of the school. It is small and I think I needed the close-knit community," he said.

When he enters college this fall, he said he hopes to find English classes he'll like as much as those at Brooks.

"The English and writing classes at Brooks were superb. I think I'll miss that the most," he said.

In addition to the academic challenges Brooks offered, Mr. Sung said he also liked the social life and sense of community at the school.

Besides being voted president of the student council, he also wrote for the school's newspaper, The Shield, and served as its editor this year.

His athletic endeavors include the JV cross country running team, captain of the varsity wrestling team and a member of the crew team. He also was a member of the school's environmental and Circolo Italiano clubs.

Mr. Sung and several other students represented their school during a recent trip to Hungary. He was chosen to attend a five-week exchange program at a high school in the city of Szeged.

When he does have spare time, Mr. Sung enjoys sketching and painting with acrylics. He said he'd love to travel and study in Australia or New Zealand.

But his travel plans will have to wait. This summer he plans to live in Vermont with his mother and her family and work at a construction site and hold a waitering job to earn money before heading to Cambridge to attend Harvard this fall.

Andover High School graduates 309 seniors

By Lisa Boudreau

One day later than planned, 309 Andover High School seniors received diplomas on the school's football field Tuesday as they were cheered by friends, family and fellow students. The 133rd commencement exercises at AHS were delayed a day because torrential rain accompanied by thunder and lightning swept through the Merrimack Valley Monday afternoon.

This was the first graduating class of seniors who attended the school four years. In the fall of 1988, AHS became a four-year high school.

Ryan Kelly, president of the class of '92, was the first speaker to address his fellow students. He told them they were the "finest" Andover had to offer and he urged them to "go out and make your mark on the world and may it last forever."

Alison Haughton, an ABC student, also had a message for her fellow graduates. (Her speech is printed on page 5A.) A Better Chance is a program that provides educational alternatives for academically talented inner-city youths.

AHS teacher Jay Darrin proves you don't have to be graduating to have some fun during Tuesday's ceremonies.

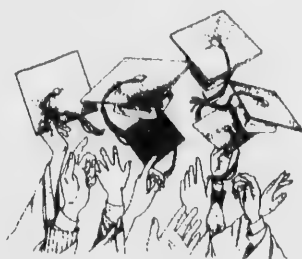

Ms. Haughton said one of her goals when she arrived at AHS more than three years ago was to understand and "break down racial intolerance" between whites and non-whites. She challenged the graduating seniors to do the same.

"Build better roads than those we've inherited," she urged.

Carlos Mendes of Brazil and Janeta Santalo of Finland, the two American Field Service exchange students at the school this year, presented flags of their countries to Andover High Principal Timothy Thomas. (Their speeches are on page 6A.) Since 1963, AHS has hosted 47 students from 32 different countries.

Heather McNemar, class essayist, read her essay, which was a retrospective of her view of four years at AHS. (Her essay is on page 16A.) She included everything from juice boxes and pizza in the cafeteria, to tackling tough social issues such as racism, sexism and homophobia.

Meghan Mueller, senior class secretary and treasurer, presented the school with two gifts: a barbecue grill for school cookouts and a new scoreboard for the varsity baseball field.

The commencement speaker was Richard Collins, who has taught, coached and encouraged students at AHS since 1959. He offered his five-part recipe for success.

"This is good, old-fashioned advice, something that is going to be just as true when you kids sit up on those bleachers as parents and watch your children graduate," he said.

His recipe is as follows: One, commitment to what you do; two, responsibility so people can depend on you; three, dedication to always do your best; four, don't give up; and five, have pride in who you are and what you are a part of.

Principal Thomas, who along with Vice Principal Ellen Parker is finishing his first year at AHS, said he has seen many positive changes during his tenure at the high school. When this year's seniors were freshmen,

Mr. Thomas began his first of three years as assistant principal.

He thanked the seniors for helping establish and nurture several programs, including the community service volunteers, the debate and dance

By Lisa Boudreau

Besides being the first graduating class in several decades to attend all four years of high school in the same building, there were other firsts for the class of 1992.

This was the first year for Principal Tim Thomas and Assistant Principal Ellen Parker. Mr. Thomas moved from the science department at AHS to assistant principal in 1988, when this year's graduating class began as freshmen. Ms. Parker came to Andover last fall from the Lawrence public schools.

It was also the first time in the history of the current building that a student, Ryan Kelly, was elected president of his class three years in a row, said Mike Marcoux and Sally O'Brien, senior class co-advisers.

The community service volunteer program at AHS, which began when the graduates were freshmen, now boasts more than 200 student volunteers.

club and the Junior Statesmen. Mr. Thomas also credited the senior class with leading the way in supporting school-based, drug and alcohol free events.

"You've served as excellent role models for the younger students," he said.

Walking to the podium to receive his diploma was Daniel Ely, who in February of 1989 was left partially paralyzed by a motorcycle accident.

The class of 1992 valedictorian and salutatorian are Eric Behling and Alaina Schroeder.

It was a year of firsts . . .

"The first year they expected maybe 12 kids to volunteer," said Mr. Marcoux.

"They had 60 participate and the seniors, who were then freshmen, led the way," he said.

Other clubs and activities initiated and nurtured by seniors during their four years at AHS include the Junior Statesmen chapter that discusses, debates and educates members on current social and political issues.

The club, which was begun by senior Laura Wilson, was named Chapter of the Year this spring by the National Junior Statesmen organization.

The debating club, dance club, Amnesty International chapter, Save the Earth and PEACE, People for the End of Animal Cruelty on Earth, are just a few of the many endeavors in which the class of 1992 invested.

Here are some other senior statistics:

- 89.7 percent of the Andover High School class of 1992 will go on to further their education.

- 80 percent will go to four-year schools.

- 4.5 percent will go to two-year schools.

- 1.5 percent will go to technical/trade schools.

- 3 percent will go into the armed services.

- .5 percent will participate in a foreign-exchange program.

- 7 percent will seek employment.

- 3 percent have incomplete plans.

ABC student says:

Communication is the key to understanding

Welcome to the graduation for the class of 1992. My name is Alison Haughton and I'm an ABC student.

ABC, or A Better Chance, is a national, non-profit organization that provides academically talented minority students with an educational alternative. The emphasis of Andover ABC is communication.

Communication seems like such a minute task when, in fact, it's probably one of the most difficult things to accomplish. In the three years that I have attended Andover High School, one of my major goals was to discover what makes a man hate another man, and break down the barriers of hate through communication.

After all, "people are people. So why should it be you and I should get along so awfully. So we're different colors and different creeds and different people have different needs." By establishing the fact that we, as humankind, need different things is probably one of the most important lessons I've learned at Andover High School, next to the fact we have to respect and appreciate the differences in people and their right to be different.

We have to rely on each others' common decency to build a line of communication between non-whites and whites; in all honesty, the ability to communicate lies within all of us. ABC is one catalyst that makes sure it surfaces. What might be seen as insignificant stereotypes to some people contribute to probably most, if not all, of racial misunderstandings that occur in our world.

For example, during the early part of my sophomore year, an individual made certain comments in homeroom that were rather off-color. I wrote the individual off and had nothing to do with him for the next year and a half. This year, I had to work with the individual I wrote off my sophomore year. By working together, the individual and I became friends. I began to

Exchange students bid farewell to Andover

Editor's note: The following speeches were made by American Field Service students who spent the year studying at Andover High School.

'AHS made me feel welcome from the start'

My name is Janetta Santalo. I am an AFS exchange student from Finland. I joined the AFS program because I wanted to get to know a different culture and people and also I liked the idea of a challenge in surviving in another country for a year.

I did not get a chance to pick the community I would be living in, but I think I was very lucky. Andover is a nice small town with a good educational system.

Andover High School made me feel very welcome right from the beginning. The students were helpful and my teachers very understanding.

In addition to attending regular classes, I also joined after-school activities. I had a lot of fun representing Andover High on the soccer field and on the ski team.

This year gave me more than I had expected. I look at the world around me in a completely different way. Now I have something to compare my own country to.

For my great year here I want to thank, first of all, the AFS organization, the local AFS chapter and Mrs. Ryden at the high school.

I also want to thank my host family, John, Janis, Evan and Molly Maier, all the teachers I had at Andover High, all my coaches and last, but not least, all my friends.

As a sign of my appreciation, I would like to present the flag of my country, Finland, to Mr. Thomas.

'I had a fantastic time and thank everyone...'

Hello. My name is Carlos Mendes. I am an AFS student from Brazil and I spent this year in Andover.

This was a great year for me. I had a fantastic time and would like to thank everyone for their support.

I especially want to thank my friends from Andover High, my teachers and counselors, especially Mrs. Ryden, Ms. Wilson, Ms. Burke, Mr. Walshe, Mr. King, Ms. Fitzgibbons and Mrs. Pappelardo, for the time they invested in me and also my host family for their patience.

To show my gratitude, I'd like to present the principal, Mr. Thomas, with a flag of my country, Brazil.

Getting married?

If you're planning a wedding, be sure not to miss the Townsmen's "Fall Wedding" special section, coming July 23.

ABC student to graduates: Communication is the key understand why he said what he had and he also understood why his comments were offensive. By communicating our feelings, we were able to establish a friendship by understanding and respecting each other.

Not all situations work out as positive as this one did. With programs like A Better Chance, there is always a hope that every little bit of communication will benefit a large unit called life.

As graduates, we are asking ourselves and the world, "What does the future have in store for us?" A bigger question is, what do we have in store for our future? Lao-tzu, a Chinese philosopher wrote, "The farther one travels, the less one knows." I besiege you fellow graduates to prove him wrong; let the roads you travel have meaning, purpose, knowledge and morality.

To change the present is to acknowledge the past and work toward the future. If we are to build better roads than those we've inherited, we must look for the problems within each of us and conquer it. As

"To change the present is to acknowledge the past and work toward the future."

Alison Haughton

we leave each other, remember: communication is a valued skill and can only be valuable if we apply it to conquering racism, sexism and the other evils of mankind, to make the future a bright, livable place.

In final parting, I leave you this, my friends, my Aunt Nadine, my family, my host family, and my ABC family:

"There is a season for sun, another for shadow. A season to sing, another to be silent. And, in all seasons, parting and reunion."

This is a season of parting, but there shall be a season for reunion. Thank you.

AHS essayist: 'The world is ours for the taking'

By Heather McNemar

Flying.
Soaring. Cruising. Gliding. Reaching.
Too high. Too fast. You've gotta love it.
Only you and the sky and the quiet still you never hear down there.

You have to take off to hear it.
Fasten your seatbelt. Cruise down the runway. Point your nose toward the clouds.

You might not make it or you might reach the sun.

Daring.

Sitting in the library fiercely whispering to your neighbor, "Is the Warrior an inappropriate mascot?"

Listening in the cafeteria as the boy across from you tries to convince you there is no racism at Andover High School.

Bringing out into the open the difficult issues previous classes had managed to avoid: Racism. Sexism. Classism. Homophobia.

Discussion reveals the best and worst in people.

We weren't always comfortable confronting the anger inside us and things haven't changed overnight.

But we are willing to face the issues and face the consequences of saying what we really feel.

Applying.

Essays, essays, essays. Who am I? Who was I? Who will I be?

"What is your wackiest moment and how has it changed your life?"

"Are you willing to work from 6 in the morning until 10 at night, seven days a week?"

You are reduced to an envelope mailed with shaking hands.

A job application handed to a busy manager.

Maybe they won't like you. After all, you aren't perfect. Or maybe they will. You're a lot more interesting than a perfect person.

Heather McNemar delivered this class essay at Andover High's commencement. She is the daughter of Donald and Britta McNemar of 189
Main St. and will attend Dartmouth
College in the fall.
Her extracurricular activities included girls cross country track, of which she was captain for the last two years, and membership in the National Honor Society. This year she was also a senior senator, coordinator of Amnesty International, and treasurer of the Junior State
Club, a political debating team.

But, without that envelope, they can't choose you, and if you don't hand it in, you'll never even know.

Racing.

Sweating. Breathing. Sweating. Breathing.

Pound, pound.

Feet, one in front of the other, eyes on the girl two trees ahead of you.

Not enough energy, let someone else make the move.

But you must go, the team is counting on you! You run beside her for a gloating second and then ...

Go!!

You shoot away, and all that is left is her heavy breath on your shoulder, pushing you to the finish line, not letting you give in.

First place, 10th or 25th.

It doesn't matter: You've won.

Believing.

Change is necessary.

Things could be different and someone needs to know.

You speak and write and meet and demonstrate, trying to pry open the bureaucratic doors.

Until the time comes and drastic action calls your name. You join others like you who are screaming and believing and protecting.

You may be ignored but your call grows louder, and someday they'll not just hear, but listen.

So take a risk. Speak out.

They won't do anything if you remain silent.

Friend-making.

Four years ago, it was easier to eat lunch in the bathroom than to face the dreaded cafeteria.

Everyone isn't staring at you as you wander the tables.

But who knew?

Too shy to approach anyone, you are angry because no one will offer you a seat.

So pull up a chair, introduce yourself.
Your future friends are waiting.

After four years of box drinks and pizza, lunch has become something more than a social hour: precious moments spent with friends.

We are on the other side now and our table is big enough. So invite someone over, or go sit with someone sitting alone.

You never know who you might meet.

Auditioning.

Clearing your throat, tuning your instrument, a deep breath.

You rehearse the monologue one last time and sit up straight in your chair.

You can still escape, run off the stage and keep going.

Never having to peer into the nearly empty seats as they shake their heads and thank you for coming, or never hearing the applause as you take your first bow.

Never knowing the star you were meant to be.

Leaving.

A roof and four walls that have become much more.

"How was your day?" won't seem like such a stupid question next year alone in a dorm room or after a bad day at work and no clean clothes.

You can't stay in high school forever, safe, comfortable, confining, stifling.

Move out, got to school, go to work.

You'll come home again, but it won't be the same.

And that's good.

Risking it.

Standing on the edge of the open door as the plane flies high above the earth, we finger our parachutes.

Risking possible death, dismemberment and the most exciting moment of our lives, or stepping back into the plane and sitting down, sighing.

Could we have made it?

The world is ours for the taking.

And all we have to do is Jump.
